Proposed Viaduct Engineer Assailed in Council

ASHLEY DECLARES KANSAS CITY FIRM SHOULD BE BARRED

Asserts That Two Spans of Bridge It Built in Florida Have Sunk Below Surface of Lake.

COUNCIL REFERS DATA TO BOND COMMISSION

John Harrington, Member of Firm, Declares Contractor Was Responsible for Collapse.

Following an attack by Councilman Claude Ashley and other members against the recommended appointment of Howard, Harrington & Ash, of Kansas City, as consulting engineers to supervise construction of the Spring street viaduct, city council, in special session Monday afternoon, voted to refer the engineering question back to the bond commission, together with data concerning the firm which Mr. Ashley laid before the body. The bond commission will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

"I'll show you conclusively whether your mind is open or not, that the firm of Howard, Harrington & Ash is not worthy to build the viaduct," declared the councilman. He then read to the council a news story from a recent issue of a Florida newspaper, stating that the two spans of the Royal Palm bridge, completed by the Kansas City firm, connecting West Palm Beach with Palm Beach, had sunk below the surface of Lake Worth.

The councilman followed with quotations from The Engineering News-Record, of January, dealing with the collapse of the structure. The publication carries an editorial and a news report submitted by R. F. Enns, of Elstia, Fla., a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Editorial on Bridge

Mr. Ashley read an excerpt from the editorial, which said: "Since structural engineering first began, masonry arches built on good foundations have justly been regarded as almost indestructible. Their record of performance is correspondingly good. In particular, no case comes to mind of failure of an arch during construction, when the arch itself was complete, but not all the load had been applied. Against such a background of fact the 'alm beach collapse stands out in striking contrast. It puts a bad blench on arch history, and had the collapse occurred three days later, with traffic on the structure, loss of life would have made it a much worse blench, an indictment of the whole profession. Even as the case is it is such an indictment; the world expects better of its trustful builders than to let completed arches that are still supported by their under structure collapse beneath the very feet of the builders."

Contributing causes of the structure's downfall quoted by Councilman Ashley from the news report, were:

Famed Feminine Bank Proves Far From Safe Before Woman Bandit

New York, January 30.—A woman bandit today entered a Seventh street butcher shop, killed Mrs. Rebecca Bell, the widow proprietor, with the butt of a revolver, took $240 from Mrs. Bell's stocking and escaped.

Mrs. Bell was found unconscious an hour after the holdup. She said the woman ordered two chickens, and that when she turned her back to prepare them she felt a revolver at the back of her head. The robber threatened her with death if she made an outcry, she said, then struck her down when she turned about.

GEORGIA CROPPING PLAN IS INDORSED BY STATE WORKERS

Agricultural Department and Agricultural College Are Now Planning to Work Together.

WORKERS WILL VISIT FARMERS OF GEORGIA

Will Concentrate Efforts on Promoting Crops of Most Benefit Under Boll Weevil Conditions.

Indications that the breach that has existed for several years between the state department of agriculture and the state agricultural college at Athens is being healed came Monday with the announcement that the state college faculty will launch a campaign throughout the state beginning February 6 to promote a scientific cropping plan, and that the state department of agriculture commends the move and will co-operate in it to the fullest extent possible.

By means of the cropping plan to be launched by the state college, the farmers of Georgia will be visited by ten groups of workers who will concentrate their energies in promoting the planting of crops which will be of most benefit to the farmer under boll weevil conditions, and also in instructing farmers along the best lines of producing cotton and reducing the ravages of the boll weevil to a minimum.

Dr. A. M. Soile, of the state college of agriculture, and Phil Campbell, head of the farm demonstration work, will direct the movement. Lem R. Jackson, director of the state bureau of markets, stated Monday that his department had been asked to co-operate in the movement, and that he would gladly join in the work, furnishing as much help as possible from his office.

Movement Commended. "The movement has my hearty commendation," Mr. Jackson asserted. "As far as my department is concerned I can promise all the help that I possibly can give at this time of the year."

U. S. IS PLANNING TO RUSH HIGHWAY WORK IN GEORGIA

State Projects in Clayton and Franklin Counties Are Given Approval of the Federal Bureau.

ANOTHER ENGINEER COMING TO GEORGIA

Quick Action by Government Follows Recent Letter to A. E. Loder, Written by W. R. Neel.

Following the plea of W. R. Neel, state highway engineer for Georgia, for more engineers to speed the work of the department in Georgia, an announcement was made from the highway department Monday afternoon that another engineer from the federal bureau will report for work here February 6. This will give three engineers for the Georgia office, those already working in this district being W. L. Croeland and J. T. Marshall.

At the same time a wire from Washington, D. C., appraised the highway commission that state projects in Clayton and Franklin counties have been approved by the federal bureau, and bids will be asked on both these important links in the state system immediately by the state department.

The project in Clayton county will form the connecting link in the system which leads directly from Fulton county to Chatham county, and is considered one of the most important pieces of highway construction to be undertaken and completed this year.

Need Asks for Aid. Several days ago Mr. Neel wrote A. E. Loder, United States district engineer at Montgomery, Ala., urging him to secure a large force of engineers for the Georgia office of the United States bureau of public roads in order that preliminary work necessary, before actual construction can begin, might be expedited and that Georgia may proceed immediately with her road program and get the $2,000,000 which was appropriated for this state by the federal bureau, effective January, 1922.

Mr. Neel stated Monday that in asking Mr. Loder for additional engineers he meant no reflection on the work that both Mr. Croeland and Mr. Marshall are doing, but there were so many projects in Georgia to be passed on that the work could be expedited with several additional engineers.

"My letter to Mr. Loder was not intended as a complaint against Mr. Loder or the district office," Mr. Croeland, United States senior highway engineer in charge of the Atlanta office, stated Mr. Neel, "but on the contrary, I have had the most effective co-operation from both offices, while Messrs. Croeland and Marshall, the federal engineers assigned to Georgia, have worked energetically and often overtime to keep up."

ATTEMPT TO TIE HANDS OF ALLIED DEBT BODY LOSES

Senate Rejects Amendments to Refunding Bill Which Would Have Hampered Commission.

FINAL VOTE ON BILL, HOWEVER, NOT TAKEN

Rejected Amendments Offered by Johnson, California; Simmons, North Carolina, and Reed.

Washington, January 30.—By fairly decisive votes the senate refused today either to require congressional approval of the agreements to be entered into with debtor nations by the proposed allied debt refunding commission or to limit the authority of the commission in the matter of deferring the time when interest payments on the eleven billion dollar foreign debt shall begin.

Despite an agreement sharply stating that a final vote was not reached, late in the day when the roll call on amendments began it looked as though now the week-old fight would come to an end, but a reference to the agricultural "bloc" by one senator brought a tart reply by another; that led to further discussion, and finally it was decided to recess until 11 a. m. tomorrow. Those in charge of the bill hope to dispose of the measure on that day, but many amendments still are pending with plenty of more discussion in prospect.

Vote on Amendments. The first amendment rejected today was that proposing approval by congress of the bond conversion agreement. It was proposed by Senator Johnson, republican, California, and was voted down, 44 to 30. Seven republicans—Borah, Brandegee, Francis, Johnson, LaFollette, Moses and Norris—joined with 29 democrats in supporting the amendment. Senator Williams, democrat, Mississippi, was the only democrat opposing it.

Next, the senate rejected, 49 to 32, an amendment by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, proposing that interest on the converted bonds be paid semi-annually or annually. Senator Williams also opposed this amendment, while four republicans—Borah, LaFollette, Johnson and Norris—supported it.

Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, then proposed that the commission be prohibited from deferring the interest payments by any country for a period longer than two years, but this also was voted down, 44 to 34. Senator Williams also opposed this amendment.

Wild Bobcat and Wolf Both Lose in Combat With Barehanded Men

Ludlow, Vt., January 30.—John Sheehan, of this town, today earned the distinction of being the first man in the district to kill a wild bobcat with his bare hands.

Sheehan, with Arthur Connors, also of Ludlow, was climbing a mountain trail near here when a bobcat disputed the right of way. As it sprang at the man, Sheehan gripped its throat. His hands were badly lacerated by the cat's claws, but he held on until it was dead.

Local hunters say this is the first instance in their experience of a bobcat attacking a man.

BOYKIN WILL ASK FOR INDICTMENTS OF DUPRE AIDES

Cases of Betty, Worth, Geoghan, Buckley and Wiley Will Be Brought Up This Morning.

Indictments as accessories after the fact of murder will be sought by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin before the Fulton grand jury Tuesday morning, when they will be presented to the grand jury the five persons implicated in the Frank B. Dupre murder case. Persons against whom Solicitor Boykin will seek the indictments are Betty Andrews, Jack Worth, Vincent Geoghan, C. R. Buckley and George Wiley.

The question of robbery will not be even brought to the attention of the jury, in so far as the solicitor is concerned, he said.

Worth to Be Tried First

It was said at the solicitor's office that there is no doubt but that Worth will be the first of the quintet to face trial. It was believed Monday morning that he would probably be arraigned before the superior court the latter part of this week, but reports at night were to the effect that no action to place him on trial would be taken before next week, probably Tuesday.

Len B. Guillebeau, attorney for Worth, said that he will be ready at any time the trial is called. Worth is charged with aiding Dupre to escape from the city.

Early trials for Betty, Buckley, Wiley and Geoghan also were indicated Monday night.

H. A. Allen, leading counsel for defense of Dupre, stated he knew of no legal objection or barrier which could be raised in permitting Dupre to appear as witness at the girl's trial when she is brought before a jury to answer charges expected to be brought against her by the grand jury.

Fred A. Harrison, the girl's attorney, emphasized Dupre's importance.

Several Agencies of District of Columbia Begin Investigation of Knickerbocker Theater Tragedy.

REVISED DEATH LIST IS TOTALED AT 105

D. C. Engineer Commissioner Blames Unknown Defect in Material for Cave-In of Roof.

By the Associated Press. Washington, January 30.—Investigation of the cause of the Knickerbocker theater disaster, which caused the death of more than 100 persons, was begun today by several agencies of the District of Columbia government with the probability that the senate and house also might undertake exhaustive inquiries.

The senate is expected to act tomorrow on a resolution by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, calling for an investigation of the catastrophe by a committee. Despite the announcement of Representative Mondell, republican leader, that the house would not authorize an inquiry until District of Columbia officials have concluded their investigations, Representative Ryan, republican, New York, charging that the collapse of the roof was due to faulty construction and would not have occurred had there been proper inspection, offered a resolution proposing an investigation.

District of Columbia commissioners declared they would go into every phase of the tragedy, which occurred Saturday night when the roof, weighted with snow, fell on an audience of several hundred, not only for the purpose of fixing the blame but also guarding against possible recurrence of such calamities.

Defect in Material Blamed

Colonel Charles Keller, engineer commissioner, after making a personal survey of the wreckage, declared he believed the cave-in was caused by a defect in material at some point of the roof's support. He stated, however, that it would be impossible now to determine whether there had been any defect in material.

Plans for the support of the roof, Colonel Keller asserted, indicate that the capacity for weight was greatly in excess of any requirement in the climate like Washington's.

Building Inspector Healy also was of the opinion that plans for the construction of the roof were sound and practical and that the necessary tests following construction had been met.

Preliminary to an investigation of the disaster, the federal grand jury went to the scene of the tragedy and examined the wreckage today. Witnesses will be called before the jury without delay, it was said, in an

NAVY PACT TERMS TO BE GIVEN OUT EARLY WEDNESDAY

Five-Power Treaty, Providing for Limitation of Sea Armaments, Is Now Completed.

CHINA GETS SHANTUNG IN NEXT FIVE YEARS

Japan and China Agree on Full Transfer of Peninsular, Including Railroad Control.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER.

United News Staff Correspondent. Washington, January 30.—Two of the major problems remaining before the arms conference have been finally settled—Shantung and Pacific fortifications.

As a consequence, the end of the arms conference is in sight.

Settlement of the question of fortifications in the Pacific means that the five-power naval treaty, under the terms of which the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy agree to limit armament of the sea, is complete.

Secretary Hughes has summoned a plenary session of the conference to meet Wednesday morning, at which time the terms of the treaty will be formally announced to the world. The Shantung agreement may be announced simultaneously.

Japs to Leave Shantung

The Shantung agreement deals with the way in which the Tsinan-Tsingtau railway properties will be transferred from Japan to China. It was the one point relating to Shantung which had not previously been settled, and the one on which disagreement had brought about a deadlock. Its effect will be to take the Japanese out of the Shantung peninsula completely within five years.

The Shantung matter, technically, was not before the arms conference. It was the subject of direct negotiations between the Chinese and Japanese delegates, arranged by Secretary Hughes and Arthur J. Balfour, in the role of mediators. It was, nevertheless, a matter of deepest concern to the conference, and the failure to agree had delayed the conclusion of deliberations. "Had an agreement not been reached, the entire success of the conference would have been imperiled."

Here are the major points of the Shantung settlement:

Features of Settlement

1. China is to purchase a railway properties with Chinese treasury notes in deferred payments extending over a period of fifteen years, with an option to buy outright in five years.

2. China is to have control of the railroad through a Chinese managing director—a Japanese traffic manager.

Man Found Dead With Poison Vial Beside His Body

Letter in His Pocket Indicates He Came Here From Arkansas.

A man believed to be S. M. Dixon, of Clarksville, Ark., was found dead at 8 o'clock Monday afternoon at a point off of Stewart avenue, which is bordered with woods. By his side was found a 2-ounce bottle which bore the label "carbolic acid," showing that he must have died by his own hand.

The dead body was discovered by Mr. Wilson, of 212 Capitol avenue, who noticed the body lying in a growth of weeds. The body was taken in charge by Donohoe & Bassmore undertaking establishment, and telegrams immediately sent to Clarksville.

A letter addressed to S. M. Dixon was found on his person. There was also a railroad ticket purchased on January 28 in Little Rock, Ark. A coroner's inquest will be held sometime Tuesday morning over the body at Donohoe & Bassmore's chapel.

Boundary Ruling To Be Financial Help to Georgia

Valuable Property for Taxation Purposes Is Added to State.

Through the decision of the United States supreme court announced Monday in the boundary line dispute between the state of Georgia and the state of South Carolina much valuable property for taxation purposes is added to Georgia, and several valuable power sites are definitely located in Georgia, Colonel George M. Napier, attorney general, declared Monday when informed of the decision.

The supreme court's decision means that the several large islands in the river definitely are awarded to Georgia, and it means further that where power sites exist on the Georgia mainland and on the islands awarded to Georgia the entire property thus available for power sites are subject to taxation in Georgia. Colonel Napier explained.

The litigation decided Monday by the supreme court was instituted in

Records of Court Show Great Drop in Divorce Cases

Recent Congested Dockets Caused by "War Marriages," Say Officials.

Domestic happiness is returning to a state of "normalcy," according to court officials, who Monday pointed with pride to the decrease in the number of undefended divorce cases on the January docket, which is being heard before Judge W. D. Ellis this week.

The November divorce docket also showed a decline in number of petitions from 450 to 380, and the January docket fell to 284.

The large increase in divorces in Fulton county the past three years has been laid to the "war marriages," which resulted in a large number of cases in the divorce court, as records in the courthouse will show.

Judge Ellis will hear 132 cases this week. Mrs. Bettie Stepp secured her first decree from F. W. Stepp after she told the jury that she was forced to swallow her engagement ring to keep her husband from taking it away from her.

Mrs. Stepp said her husband was trying to get her wedding ring off with a pair of pliers when she swallowed the ring and had previously slipped from her finger. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney John Z. Smith.

Big Savings For The Thrifty Housewife

Few homes indeed do not feel the need of economy. The necessity of making every penny count touches the purse of every housewife. It is doubtful if there is a single article employed as a food or in the preparation of food that demands more economy than Baking Powder. Upon its quality depends the success and economy of the bakings themselves.

Calumet Baking Powder enables the housewife to make three worth while savings. She saves when she buys it—it is moderate in price. She saves when she uses it—she uses only half as much as is required of most other powders. She saves of most other powders. She saves of materials it is used with—it never permits bake-day failure. Any woman can use Calumet with absolute certainty of best results—delicious, tasty bakings that are pure and wholesome.

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, of 705 North Seventeenth Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and I will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping.

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine.

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs. I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time.

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should cure you.

delicate, a real agreement, and would only to be reduced to written form. Another session of the delegations will be held Tuesday.

The Hughes-Balfour compromise proposal furnished the basis for reaching common ground. This was offered when the delegates had been unable to agree among themselves. President Harding had interested himself in bringing about acceptance of the compromise.

The delegations made no formal announcement of their agreement. This they thought might be done by Hughes and Balfour, since they had brought the negotiations about.

Chinese spokesmen said the Chinese would accept the option of the option to buy the railway in five years. Money is collected for that purpose, they said. The Japanese joint control would thereupon terminate.

The Chinese, in accepting the compromise, yielded on their desire to have complete and immediate restoration of the railway. The Japanese desired a greater share in control, confining their interests in China warranted this.

The Shanghai question has been a world issue ever since the peace conference in Paris, when the former German leasehold was awarded to the Japanese. The award was a factor in bringing about American repudiation of the treaty of Versailles.

Article 19 of the naval treaty, covering the question of fortifying the Pacific island possessions of the powers, was agreed upon at a session of the naval committee Monday. This, the last question involved in the naval treaty, now binds the three leading powers as follows:

1. The United States will not increase the fortifications of Guam or the Philippines.

2. Great Britain will not increase the fortification of Hong Kong.

3. Japan will not increase the fortification of the Bonin islands, Ryukyu, Oshima, Formosa, Pescadores and the Kuril islands.

Other island possessions or dominions of the powers, including the islands of Japan proper, save for the listed exceptions, the American coast and Hawaii, Australia, New Zealand and other British possessions, are excluded from the non-fortification provisions.

The balance of the naval treaty articles have been reported in detail by the United States. They provide measures for scrapping capital ships, limits on future building, both as to number of vessels and as to the tonnage of each; gun limitations on all classes of ships; regulations for converting merchantmen, a chart for the treaty endures for fifteen years, providing a naval holiday of ten years, during which no building of capital ships shall take place except as specified.

Some of the provisions, and any further territories or possessions in the Pacific ocean which Japan may hereafter acquire.

"The maintenance of the status quo, under the foregoing provisions, implies that no new fortifications or naval bases shall be established in the territories and possessions specified; that no measures shall be taken to increase the existing naval facilities for the repair and maintenance of naval forces; and that no increase shall be made in the coast defense of the territories and possessions above specified.

This restriction, however, does not preclude such repair and replacement of worn-out weapons and equipment as is customary in naval and military establishments in time of peace."

"Show Felled On Me," Is Shortest Story of Crash

Washington, January 30.—In the office of the Grand Jurors, the coroner, a film, "What No Man Knows," which was to have been shown at the theater Tuesday.

Funerals of the Knickerbocker victims already are being held. Hearings are to be seen everywhere, with processions straggling through the snow-covered streets.

Senora Virginia Ferond, theater violinist and sister of Guatemalan Minister Bianchi, will be buried in Ventura, Cal., with her husband, who died in 1917.

The Washington Daily News Monday opened an editorial campaign to close all Washington theaters until their safety from both fire and collapse has been definitely established. Several are said to be built on the same structural plan as the ill-fated Knickerbocker.

Little Elizabeth Hayden, on her discharge from Emergency hospital, after her cuts and bruises had been dressed, gave the shortest account yet of the disaster. Asked by her father if she remembered what happened, she replied, "The show felled on me."

Another little girl, about eight years old, had a narrow escape from death, slipping in the direct line of the tragedy; she fell down and a board fell on her. People entering the scene of the disaster stepped on the board without knowing of the little body beneath. A rescuer finally discovered her and barred the way until she could be removed.

The big brass kettle drum from the Knickerbocker orchestra was being used by marines as a receptacle for carrying out the wreckage.

Hundreds of onlookers at the theater Monday gathered bits of concrete, pieces of chairs and other gruesome souvenirs of the tragedy.

The grand jury investigation of C. W. Moore, ship magnate, will be temporarily sidetracked to give way to an immediate grand jury probe of the theater disaster, United States Attorney Peyton Gordon said.

At President Harding's request, the reception of the Ohio Society to Honor McKinley's birthday, has been postponed because the president is postponed until the city recovers from its grief.

Attorney General Daugherty postponed a dinner to be given for President and Mrs. Harding Wednesday night at a later date, as a result of the president's attitude on social events at this time.

Many of the foreign diplomats here conveyed special messages of condolence from their governments to Secretary Hughes as a result of the theater tragedy.

C. L. Holbrook, 79, found dead from escaping gas at his home, was for a time listed by authorities as a Knickerbocker victim, testifying to the confusion in reports of the theater death list.

Two theaters operated for negroes were closed Sunday out of respect for the Knickerbocker dead.

Oscar G. Kanston, aged 12, left an orphan by the death of his father, mother and two sisters, is being cared for by friends of the family before leaving to join his grandfather and grandmother in Chicago.

Dr. Andrew J. Barchfield, one of the Knickerbocker victims, served as representative in seven congresses from the thirty-second Pennsylvania district.

Joseph Wade Bell, first violinist at the theater, and G. S. Freeman, another victim, had been married but four and three days respectively before their lives were crushed out.

Secretary Hoover expressed belief that if the newspaper accounts were correct, it would seem that "faulty construction" was responsible for the theater collapse. Colonel Charles Keller, engineer commissioner of the district, voiced a like opinion. Added theories advanced in other quarters were "deterioration of construction material," "vibrations caused by street-cars, hand clapping, music and movement" and "the immense weight of the great pile of snow which had accumulated near the center of the roof."

effort to fix blame.

Army Engineers to Probe.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt, declared he would spare no effort in placing responsibility, requested Peyton Gordon, district attorney, to ask the war department to assign expert engineers to the task of determining the cause of the roof collapse. Mr. Gordon said he would seek such assistance.

Convinced that all bodies had been removed from the debris field, search for dead was halted today by officials in charge of rescue work which had gone on continuously for 48 hours. The last body was removed from the wreckage late last night. Inspector Healy ordered the walls of the theater razed at once as a safety precaution. Unfounded reports that the walls had collapsed, killing men in the rescue party, were spread broadcast today, causing much excitement.

DEVELOPMENT OF CLAY IN GEORGIA PLANNED

The B. Mifflin Hood company, manufacturers of shale brick, and dealers in other building material, plans further development of clay products in this state, it was announced Monday. Six young men of the organization, it was announced, have been sent to the University of Illinois, where they will attend a special ceramic engineering course.

Upon their return to Atlanta, these young men will specialize in carrying out the plans of the Hood organization in converting Georgia's clay to use. B. Mifflin Hood, head of the organization, declares that such development will serve to reduce prices of building brick and tile, and also act as a stimulus to building. He said that the consumer in the south would be relieved of heavy freight rates, and that he anticipated a decline in the price of all building materials.

Mr. Hood declared that there are vast deposits of valuable clay in Georgia, and that its development is awaiting brains and money. He said that the market is here, as millions of dollars are being sent north for clay products that could be produced here just as well.

"The war is over now," he said. "The cost of production is lower, and dealers can't expect to maintain the same scale of prices that was in vogue when conditions were different. The lowering of prices will mean more building, of course, and this will mean more jobs for the unemployed."

The Hood company has three large warehouses in Greenwood avenue. It has completed erection of an office building at Greenwood avenue and the Southern railway, a site formerly used by the Austin Brothers and which was purchased by the Hood company last year.

"Ever since producing shale brick in 1908 at cost plus a reasonable profit," Mr. Hood stated, "the Hood organization has endeavored to give a little more quality than charged for, and consequent confidence and good will have led the Hood organization to further refine burned shale to where they now have the only shale roofing tile plant and the only quarry floor tile plant in the southern states, also the only chemical stoneware plant in the southern states. This plant during the war furnished the government 80,000,000 acid rings for production of chemicals going into high explosives."

"At the Greenwood avenue site there are three large warehouses and ample sidetrack and yard space for handling not only face brick, common brick, roofing and floor tile, but a full line of building materials such as cement, plaster and other commodities."

"The war is over now," he said. "The cost of production is lower, and dealers can't expect to maintain the same scale of prices that was in vogue when conditions were different. The lowering of prices will mean more building, of course, and this will mean more jobs for the unemployed."

M'GHEE OBTAINS PEACE WARRANT AGAINST UPCHURCH

B. L. McGhee, of 53 Virginia circle, Monday swore out a peace warrant in the municipal court against Z. R. Upchurch, a leader in the insurgent faction of the Ku Klux Klan, and charged that the latter had threatened to "get even" with Mrs. McGhee, the wife of the petitioner.

The taking out of the warrant followed the alleged attempt by O. M. Howell, a former city detective, to take a portfolio from Upchurch at the Brookwood station Friday afternoon. Upchurch stated at the time that he had just returned from a Klan meeting in New Orleans, when his portfolio, containing valuable papers, was snatched from him.

Mrs. McGhee is said to have been in front of Mr. Upchurch as he was coming up from the train. As they passed the office of the latter, she is said to have fainting and when Upchurch reached down to give her first aid his portfolio was snatched by Howell. After a short chase, McGhee is said to have been caught and the papers returned to Upchurch.

The warrant was sworn out by McGhee, acting for his wife.

Fight Fans Flock To Ring Classic At the Criterion

More than four hundred fans entered the Criterion theater within the first thirty minutes after it opened yesterday morning. The crowd waiting in line before the box office opened—thats how much they wanted to see "The Battle of the Century," the name of the upcoming classic, wherein Tex Rickard gives the prize of the title to Dempsey-Carpenter famous boxing exhibition to the world.

The billed exactly sixty minutes and gave as many genuine thrills as any far-famed feature ever packed into one brief hour. It starts off with a bang and ends in a blaze of glory. A snappy little act shows the young American giant when his manager takes him in hand and starts him training for the event of the future. Then a few bars of "Dixie" and the audience thrills like a spirited war horse to the sound of the strains of the "Marechal" march.

With that the show is over! "The Battle of the Century" is a clean and wholesome two scientific trained manly athletes could make it. It is a liberal education in the art of boxing and keeping one's self physically fit; it is a tribute to the game-ness of one very fine George Carpenter, an brave chap as ever entered the ring; and it is a tribute likewise to the strong young American champion who proved himself not only the heavyweight champion of the world, but a generous opponent.

DOKEY DRILL TEAM GIVES DANCE TONIGHT

The Brigand drill team of Kibla Temple No. 123 Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan has completed all arrangements for a dance and entertainment to be given to the members of the Order Knights of Pythias and their ladies Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Pythian Castle hall. Cards may be obtained from Captain Lee F. Terrell, 30 Peachtree Arcade, or in the lobby of the Forsyth building after 6 o'clock. Major B. L. Owens and James L. Townsend will have charge of the floor and R. R. Trawick, H. M. Lindsay and L. M. Hunt will comprise the reception committee.

YEGGMEN ARE FOILED IN ATTEMPT ON SAFE

Cloves were being sought Monday which will reveal to police and detectives the identity of unidentified yeggmens, the late Sunday night made an unsuccessful attempt to open the safe in the garage of J. W. Milan, 134 Piedmont avenue. The thieves gained access to the building, but their object was evidently robbery of the safe and after much drilling they were forced to abandon their plan. The safe was sold to a contractor, and the safe and office records. Nothing was reported missing from the building.

NEW MONEY BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Washington, January 30.—The independent office appropriation bill carrying a total of $204,304,238, most of which is for use by the Veterans bureau, was passed today by the house and sent to the senate. For the purpose of restricting the bill for the purpose of restricting the number of camps at which training schools might be established to Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Some of the items making up the $204,304,238 appropriation for the shipping board came in for sharp attack, the house defeating, 171 to 117, a democratic motion to recommit the bill for the purpose of restricting the number of camps at which training schools might be established to Camp Sherman, Ohio.

The motion to recommit, offered by Representative Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina, a member of the appropriations committee, would have

HERRICK AND HARVEY TALK WITH POINCARÉ

Harris, January 30.—By the Associated Press.—Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador to France, and George Harvey, ambassador to Great Britain, were in conversation today with Premier Poincaré for nearly forty minutes. Afterward the two ambassadors said their talk was of a general nature, and that it did not relate especially to the Genoa economic conference or to Franco-American relations.

Reference was made during the interview to the general situation, but, according to Mr. Harvey and Mr. Herrick, the French premier, contrary to expectations, failed to take advantage of the opportunity to discuss the attitude of the United States government with regard to the Genoa conference.

It was the first visit of the ambassadors to M. Poincaré since he became premier. Both Mr. Herrick and Mr. Harvey tendered to M. Poincaré congratulations and good wishes.

The fact that M. Poincaré did not himself bring up the subject of the Genoa conference, or of Franco-American affairs prevented any definite discussion of these questions. The premier asked if there had been any decision regarding American participation at Genoa. He was told that the ambassadors had not been informed of any decision.

Mr. Harvey has postponed his departure for London for several days. He said tonight, however, that he had no further appointment to see M. Poincaré, and would again visit him unless something developed which necessitated a call.

TERRIFIC BLIZZARD DELAYS MANY TRAINS

Railway service between Atlanta and Washington, D. C., was badly crippled Saturday and Sunday by a blizzard in the north and as far south as Virginia and North Carolina. The storm was described as the worst in many years.

The Southern railway reported that two of its trains, operating between Atlanta and Washington, were as much as 24 hours late. Train No. 35, which was to have arrived from Washington early Sunday morning, came in badly crippled at 5:25 o'clock Monday morning. Other trains were greatly delayed. No. 137 did not run at all, and No. 37, the New York-New Orleans limited, made up in Danville, Va.

Regular service was resumed Monday, however, the Southern railway reported, and trains were leaving Washington with a clear track ahead.

The Seaboard railway reported that most of its trains from Washington to Atlanta had made regular connections at Hamlet, N. C., and that none were running more than two or three hours late Monday morning.

MRS. CARRIE S. BECHT TO REST IN WEST VIEW

Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie Shackelford Becht, of 494 Spring street, a well-known Atlanta woman, and the wife of R. Paul Becht, a prominent real estate agent, who died Sunday evening in a private hospital, will be conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son by Dr. Richard Orme Flynn. Interment will follow in West View cemetery.

Mrs. Becht is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. J. Warren Leach, of Atlanta, and a brother, M. A. Shackelford, of Haganville, Ga. Her death followed an illness of about a week.

Mrs. Becht was born in September, 1872, in Truitt county, and moved to Atlanta 22 years ago. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church, in the affairs of which she was an active participant. Much of her time was devoted to religious and charitable work.

GOOD BOOKS SOUGHT FOR PRISON LIBRARY

Good literature, preferably good fiction and religious books, is sought by Rev. J. A. Sewell, Protestant chaplain in the federal penitentiary, who is charged with the duty of keeping the prison library properly supplied with literature. He said Monday that the demand is at present greater than the supply.

"There must be many," he said, "who would be glad to add to the efficiency of our library by sending to us some real good books and literature that have performed their mission with them, but which would be received and appreciated by us as most valuable additions to our stocks. Those interested in helping us may mail the books to the library, United States penitentiary."

ATTEMPT TO HAMPER DEBT BODY LOSES

while five republicans—Borah, Johnson, Kenyon, La Follette and Norris—voted for it.

Another Pending.

Senator Simmons offered another amendment limiting the time for forwarding interest payments to three years. This was pending when the senate finally adjourned a brief executive session preliminary to the recess until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

This recess plan was agreed upon after a motion to adjourn had been defeated on a roll call, 44 to 32.

In the course of debate today there were charges of "minister" influence behind the bill. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, declared that powerful financial interests, both in the United States and abroad, did not intend that the allied debt should be forgiven. Senator Simmons charged that the proposed legislation would benefit the holders in this country of $5,000,000,000 of the bonds of the allied countries floated largely before the United States entered the war.

ROTATION OF CROPS HELPS DEFEAT WEEVIL

surplus crop only—a money crop. They are those of them who are mastering the boll weevil—planting an average of one-half the cotton acreage to some other crop, such as corn, sorghum, or grain, and then rotating the cotton back to the smaller acreage and taking off almost as much net lint as they did when they thought they could or should only raise cotton. Just as in the other states of the cotton belt, when the weevil struck Arkansas the planters—even in the delta section, were not prepared for him. They had procrastinated. They thought he would never get so far up. He came upon them like a tornado, and for the first two or three years he swept the fields clean. They were panic-stricken—just as they were in

Hollomon Articles Popular With Butts County Farmers

Jackson, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—The series of articles being written by J. A. Hollomon, staff correspondent of The Constitution, dealing with the boll weevil in Texas and other states, is being read with interest by citizens of Butts county.

These articles, farmers and business men believe, will greatly benefit the entire state. Well-informed business men and planters point out that Georgia will always be a cotton country, and that the best way to combat the boll weevil successfully is in the main problem before the cotton belt at this time.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN MINE BLAST

Pineville, Ky., January 30.—A mine explosion tonight killed four persons and may have killed or injured many others at Layman, 20 miles from here. An explosion, heard a considerable distance, occurred in the mines of the Layman-Calloway mines shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday night. How many persons were in the mine at the time had not been determined at midnight. Four bodies have been recovered, although the rescue corps has been able to penetrate only a short distance, according to reports received here.

OLDEST WOMAN IN SOUTH GEORGIA DIES IN GLYNN

Brunswick, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Mrs. Betty Harold, said to be the oldest person in south Georgia, died at her home near this city today. Her age was said to be 110 years. She was a resident of Wayne county, Ga., and had been in Glynn, removing to this county about a year ago.

She has one surviving daughter, Mrs. Brown, residing here, said to be 85 years of age.

MRS. R. O. CAMPBELL DID NOT LEAVE WILL

Application for letters of administration for the estate of the late Mrs. R. O. Campbell, who died in Atlanta, was made in the office of Ordinary J. H. Jeffries Monday by the children of the deceased, Mrs. William Jay McKenna, of New York city, formerly Miss Dolene Campbell, and Richard Orme Campbell. The children asked that their uncle, J. Buford Campbell, be named to administer the estate with them. The estate was valued at $50,000 by the petitioners. Mrs. Campbell left no will.

RUPTURE EXPERT IN ATLANTA

Now a word with some of the farmers whom I have either interviewed personally or have heard directly from.

B. O. Zellner, of this place, is one of the large and successful cotton growers of this section. In 1921 he had 650 acres in cotton.

"I never saw the weevils so thick in my life. I pushed the cotton as fast as I could, cultivating every two weeks, which meant of course plows and harrows running all the time. About the middle of July weevil infestation was around 70 per cent. It looked blue. Rains set in. But I kept the land cultivated going and on the 25th of July I started the dusting machines. I made the applications about a week apart, sometimes ten days apart, on account of rain interference. I had an early variety. I had the seed beds thoroughly prepared and got an initial stand. I left the cotton thick in the drill. My yield from a third to a bale an acre according to soil conditions, but on the whole acreage where I was enabled to co-ordinate dusting with intense cultivation averaged about 3-4 of a bale to the acre. That was on 450 acres. On the acreage undusted I made less, but even then a successful crop. The cost of dusting in 1921 prices, including labor and depreciation, ran about $4.50 an

Demonstrates the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel.

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you would like to be free from the slavery of gougine, pinching, chafing trusses that make life a burden, then HERB and NOW is the time to act.

J. A. Gilligan, an expert in rupture cases, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, New York, the famous discoverer of the Rice Non-Surgical Rupture Method, will be at the Cecil Hotel, Atlanta, Ga., February 2, 3 and 4.

Mr. Gilligan is here to personally demonstrate to all ruptured people what the Rice Rupture Method can accomplish. You have no doubt heard and read much about this famous Method and the cures which thousands have reported from it. Now you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it demonstrated to you and to see what it can do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and Mr. Gilligan will give you his personal attention, his best advice and complete demonstration absolutely without charge.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable truss? Would you like to be free of it forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and find out the possibilities it holds out. Surely a Method that could cause so many thousands of former rupture sufferers to report cures must be worthy of your full and complete investigation. The Rice Method is different from anything else. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, foremost of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Method that you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you, right on your own person, without any charge whatever. You do not spend a penny unless after having a full and complete demonstration, you decide that this is the Method for you. And you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

In justice to yourself, come in and see Mr. Gilligan. Remember, he will be here only three days, then your opportunity will be gone. Grasp it NOW. It may prove to be the wisest thing you ever did, and, anyway, it costs you nothing to find out.

Remember, come to the Cecil Hotel, any day from 9 to 12 forenoon, 2 to 5 afternoons, or 7 to 9 in the evening. The dates are February 2, 3 and 4. Don't let this opportunity get away from you.

Now you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it demonstrated to you and to see what it can do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and Mr. Gilligan will give you his personal attention, his best advice and complete demonstration absolutely without charge.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable truss? Would you like to be free of it forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and find out the possibilities it holds out. Surely a Method that could cause so many thousands of former rupture sufferers to report cures must be worthy of your full and complete investigation. The Rice Method is different from anything else. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, foremost of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Method that you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you, right on your own person, without any charge whatever. You do not spend a penny unless after having a full and complete demonstration, you decide that this is the Method for you. And you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

In justice to yourself, come in and see Mr. Gilligan. Remember, he will be here only three days, then your opportunity will be gone. Grasp it NOW. It may prove to be the wisest thing you ever did, and, anyway, it costs you nothing to find out.

Remember, come to the Cecil Hotel, any day from 9 to 12 forenoon, 2 to 5 afternoons, or 7 to 9 in the evening. The dates are February 2, 3 and 4. Don't let this opportunity get away from you.

Hollomon Articles Popular With Butts County Farmers

Jackson, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—The series of articles being written by J. A. Hollomon, staff correspondent of The Constitution, dealing with the boll weevil in Texas and other states, is being read with interest by citizens of Butts county.

These articles, farmers and business men believe, will greatly benefit the entire state. Well-informed business men and planters point out that Georgia will always be a cotton country, and that the best way to combat the boll weevil successfully is in the main problem before the cotton belt at this time.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN MINE BLAST

Pineville, Ky., January 30.—A mine explosion tonight killed four persons and may have killed or injured many others at Layman, 20 miles from here. An explosion, heard a considerable distance, occurred in the mines of the Layman-Calloway mines shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday night. How many persons were in the mine at the time had not been determined at midnight. Four bodies have been recovered, although the rescue corps has been able to penetrate only a short distance, according to reports received here.

OLDEST WOMAN IN SOUTH GEORGIA DIES IN GLYNN

Brunswick, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Mrs. Betty Harold, said to be the oldest person in south Georgia, died at her home near this city today. Her age was said to be 110 years. She was a resident of Wayne county, Ga., and had been in Glynn, removing to this county about a year ago.

She has one surviving daughter, Mrs. Brown, residing here, said to be 85 years of age.

MRS. R. O. CAMPBELL DID NOT LEAVE WILL

Application for letters of administration for the estate of the late Mrs. R. O. Campbell, who died in Atlanta, was made in the office of Ordinary J. H. Jeffries Monday by the children of the deceased, Mrs. William Jay McKenna, of New York city, formerly Miss Dolene Campbell, and Richard Orme Campbell. The children asked that their uncle, J. Buford Campbell, be named to administer the estate with them. The estate was valued at $50,000 by the petitioners. Mrs. Campbell left no will.

"I never saw the weevils so thick in my life. I pushed the cotton as fast as I could, cultivating every two weeks, which meant of course plows and harrows running all the time. About the middle of July weevil infestation was around 70 per cent. It looked blue. Rains set in. But I kept the land cultivated going and on the 25th of July I started the dusting machines. I made the applications about a week apart, sometimes ten days apart, on account of rain interference. I had an early variety. I had the seed beds thoroughly prepared and got an initial stand. I left the cotton thick in the drill. My yield from a third to a bale an acre according to soil conditions, but on the whole acreage where I was enabled to co-ordinate dusting with intense cultivation averaged about 3-4 of a bale to the acre. That was on 450 acres. On the acreage undusted I made less, but even then a successful crop. The cost of dusting in 1921 prices, including labor and depreciation, ran about $4.50 an reach no agreement for the trial of the case in Hancock county.

The argument on demurrers consumed an hour and a half. Judge Park overruled demurrers submitted by the defense and the examination of the state's witnesses was in progress when court adjourned this afternoon before the trial commenced counsel for the state announced that the fourth count in the indictment charging a misappropriation of over $5,000 was abandoned.

The principal witness for the state this afternoon was M. M. Stephens, who examined the bank's records. The witness was subjected to a long cross examination and the defense succeeded in a statement from him to the effect that in alleged falsification of records involving the sum of $2,500, the only amount lost by the bank was interest on the sum.

It was also charged by the state that Holmes had defrauded a negro woman of $150. During the cross-examination it was testified that the bank president received this money in his office at the First National bank. Sparta, and transferred the money to an official of the Bank of Sparta.

Most of the afternoon was spent in objection by the defense to the testimony offered, and only a few details of the state's case were disclosed. It is expected that the principal testimony will be introduced tomorrow.

The case is attracting unusual attention and the courtroom was crowded. Many people, including a large number of women, came from Sparta to be present at the trial. Mrs. Holmes was present and sat by her husband. From present indications it will be some time Wednesday before the trial is completed.

The prosecution is being represented by Allen and Pottle, of Milledgeville, and Doyle Campbell, solicitor-general.

William S. Burwell and Robert H. Lewis, of Sparta; Albert G. Foster, of Madison, and Greene F. Johnson, of Monticello, represent the defendant. The entire morning was consumed in the selection of a jury.

A. B. & A. STRIKER RELEASED IN BOND

Fitzgerald, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Homer Smith, A. B. & A. striker held in the local jail for some time on a charge of felony, not described, in connection with the railroad strike, today was released on bond. The bond in his case was $500 for Ben Hill county and $1,000 for Irwin county, in which county he was charged with attempting to wreck a train near Abba last May.

GLYNN POULTRY MENTO MEET NEXT SATURDAY

Brunswick, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—The Glynn County Poultry Breeders' association, under whose auspices "Booster Day" will be held in this city on Saturday, February 4, is making every effort to enlist the support of poultry breeders and fanciers of this and all of the nearby counties in the movement, which will mean better stock in future.

There will be ten different breeds for sale, and the list will include those grown best in this particular section. Besides the cockerels, there will be hens of the thoroughbred variety as well as eggs for hatching.

Since the organization of the local poultry association, there has been a decided increase in poultry raising throughout the county, and Glynn is rapidly coming to the front as one of the best poultry counties in this section of the state.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, a emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

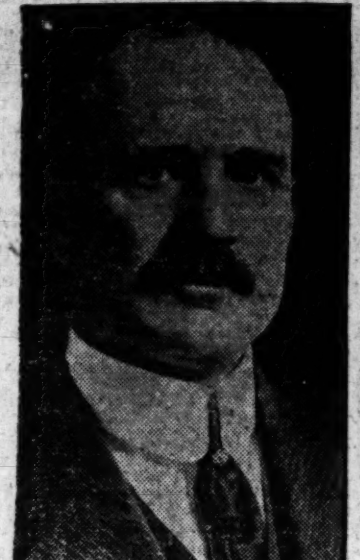

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

GEORGIA CROPPING PLAN IS INDORSED

but in conversation with a Constitution reporter he stated his willingness to co-operate to the fullest extent in reducing the damage done by the boll weevil in Georgia, and in contributing to the betterment of farming conditions during the period of worst boll weevil infestation yet experienced.

Dr. L. G. Hardeman, of Commerce, chairman of the board of trustees of the state college, declared Monday night that Dr. A. M. Soule is now working out details of the educational campaign to be conducted, beginning early in February.

In addition to mapping out a "cropping system" for use this year, the campaign will include demonstration of the best methods of packing and preparing cotton and other farm products for shipment, according to Dr. Hardeman.

Will Work Together.

Dr. Hardeman recently expressed much pleasure over the fact that the two big agricultural development agencies of Georgia—the state college and the department of agriculture—are getting closer together, and are showing a willingness to work together for the common good of the farmers of the state.

In a speech delivered at Athens last week Governor Thomas W. Hardwick pointed out the futility of a continued breach between the two departments, and recommended that they get together. A few days later The Constitution, which has long urged editorially that those differences be harmonized, in an editorial, indorsed the movement to bring the two agencies together.

Commissioner Brown declared that he indorsed the statement of Governor Hardwick and the editorial of The Constitution, and was willing to go to any length to co-operate with the State College of Agriculture in promoting the interest of the farmer. He stated that the breach between the department had arisen before he took office, and that during his administration the trend had been to bring the departments closer together.

Details of the educational campaign to be waged by the state college authorities, with the help and co-operation of the state department of agriculture, will be announced as soon as they are perfected. It is tentatively, that the campaign will begin February 6 and will continue for several weeks. Every section of Georgia will be visited by the campaign workers.

executive ability of exceptional value, Mr. Nash appointed him manager of the Buick branch in Washington, and later, after becoming the head of General Motors, Mr. Nash gave Mr. Martin and his associates the Oakland and G. M. C. franchise for the southeastern states.

Mr. Martin has disposed of both these contracts and all other southern automobile interests, so as to devote his entire energy to the Nash franchise which he has just secured.

Mr. Nash came to Atlanta to personally complete the transaction, which makes Mr. Martin distributor for the Nash car in this territory. He is a man of few words. He seldom talks, but when he does he speaks advisedly, and business men in all lines have come to respect him for the many successful undertakings in his credit.

Believes in Work.

Knowing this, Mr. Nash was asked to give his opinion of business conditions for the coming year, especially as they affect the automobile business. "Many of us have talked too much," he believes in work, "was the ready reply, upon which he elaborated. 'Unlike many others, I believe that this is a critical year for the automobile business. The point of saturation in the automobile industry has been almost, if not actually, reached. Facilities were created during the period of prosperity to manufacture and assemble more automobiles than the country can absorb, and the situation has become one of the survival of the fittest.'

"I look forward confidently to the coming two years. We believe that our product, our policies and our distributing organization will stand the test and that our dealers will enjoy a profitable business. But it will take work, and our organization from the factory down to the dealer has been put into working shape. All unnecessary expenses have been eliminated and a plan for co-ordinated work is being put into effect."

Mr. Nash believes that in every line of endeavor, that a similar plan will prove profitable. He voiced the opinion that unwillingness to take losses due to depreciated value of inventory, has been one of the chief factors in retarding business during the past year.

EX-BANK HEAD ON TRIAL IN GLYNN

Accountant Testifies That Many Loans Made by Jesup Banking Company Were Not Recorded.

Brunswick, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—L. Carter, former president of the defunct Jesup Banking company and vice president of the Odum Banking company, was placed on trial in the Glynn superior court this morning on a charge of fraudulent insolvency of the first named bank.

The case was transferred from Wayne to Glynn county under a change of venue. Judge Eschell Graham, of the Oconee circuit, is presiding, Judge Highsmith being disqualified in the case.

All of the morning session was consumed in securing a jury and it was after 4 o'clock when the first witness was called. It was necessary for the clerk to read the names of all officers, directors and depositors of both the banks, some twelve or fifteen hundred in number, as jurors related to either were not eligible to serve.

Excludes Glynn Citizens.

When the Carter case was started, Judge Graham excluded from the courtroom every Glynn county man whose name is in the jury box, realizing that if they were permitted to hear the evidence it would be a difficult matter to secure juries in the several other cases to be tried.

The first witness called by the state was Certified Public Accountant, Amason, who made a thorough investigation into the Jesup Banking company shortly after its failure. He was on the stand for some time, giving in detail many of the transactions of the bank and stating that there was a large number of loans made of which there was no record; or that they were not shown in the minutes of the directors. He was closely cross-examined by attorneys for the defense.

Prominent Business Man.

L. Carter, the first of the several bank officials to be tried, is one of the best known business men in this section of the state. At one time he was reputed to be a man of wealth, but with the failure of the two banks, a number of other interests in which he was heavily involved also failed.

BOUNDARY RULING TO HELP GEORGIA

1917, when Clifford Walker was attorney-general. The case had remained in the supreme court unargued for several years. Last summer Attorney-General Napier went to Washington and arranged a date for arguing the case. This date was fixed at January 3, 1922, less than a month ago. The arguments were submitted by Colonel Napier and Attorney-General Daniel Wolfe, of South Carolina. The court's decision comes less than a month after these final arguments were delivered. Attorney-General Napier was aided in preparing his case by Assistant Attorney-General Edward W. Smith and Judge Thomas F. Grimes, of Athens, who prepared the original brief.

COL. NEWMAN TO SPEAK AT LIONS' CLUB MEET

Colonel H. B. Newman, of Knoxville, Tenn., grand field secretary of the national organization of Lions' clubs, will be a guest and speaker at the meeting of the club to be held at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel. This is the first official visit of Mr. Newman to Atlanta. The regular program will include a talk by a well known business man upon the Associated Charities and the "five-way" drive.

Holding of Court.

In Associated Press dispatches received Monday it was stated that the supreme court held that where there are no islands in the Savannah river the boundary line shall be midway between the two states at normal flow stage and that where there are islands the line shall be midway between the islands and the South Carolina shore. The islands were awarded to Georgia.

Attorney General Napier said the decision was a complete victory for the state of Georgia—the United States supreme court upholding virtually every contention this state had made in the case. South Carolina claimed that the low water mark on the Georgia side of the Savannah river was the boundary line where there were no islands and that the low water mark on the north shore of the islands was the boundary where there are islands, conceding that the islands belonged to Georgia.

Although actual litigation over the boundary line between the two states has been in progress about four years the controversy over the boundary has been in progress since 1787 when the treaty of Beaufort was signed. At the conference held at Beaufort several months ago between the states included the boundary line were settled by agreement. This treaty, however, subsequently was interpreted two ways by the two states and the controversy over the boundary line arose and has continued for more than 100 years. In recent years the development of power sites along the Savannah river and its tributaries, the Tugaloo, Chattooga and other rivers raised important legal questions which were settled in the decision of the supreme court handed down Monday.

The Sixteenth Case.

Colonel Napier pointed out that this case was No. 16 before the supreme court, showing that only fifteen controversies between states have been settled by the supreme court prior to this case.

In preparing the arguments to be submitted to the supreme court, Colonel Napier and Assistant Attorney-General Edward W. Smith spent several months. They went to London, England, and obtained from the keeper of the chancery roll a certified copy of the original charter issued by King George II. to James Oglethorpe and his associates. In this charter the boundary was fixed as the "most northern straight street of the Savannah river." Colonel Napier pointed out that the decision also is important, in that it settles for all time the question of criminal jurisdiction over certain portions of the Savannah river and the islands in the river.

EDUCATORS ARRIVE TO FINISH SURVEY OF SCHOOL SYSTEM

Educators of Columbia university with their corps of expert surveyors returned to Atlanta Monday to resume the survey of the city's school system. The directors, all of whom arrived Monday, are Dr. N. L. Engelhardt, Dr. George D. Strayer and Dr. E. S. Evenden, of the Teachers' college, of Columbia. A complete report, which will be rendered to the board of education, is expected to be made by April 1, or before.

The survey of the physical plant has already been finished. Research will now be conducted into school costs, school accounting, classification and progress, child accounting, population trends and the high school problem.

It is planned to shape the future development of the school system by the results of the survey.

Your Gas Bills

THE new gas rate ($1.55, net, for the city of Atlanta and of $1.65, net, for the suburbs) includes and dates from January 4, 1922.

At the time the Federal Court order placing this rate in effect was issued, all of the bills which are to be mailed on February 1, had been made up.

Consequently, bills that customers will receive on or about February 1 will be for gas under the old rate, due to the impossibility of making out new bills at the new rate in time to mail them on the usual date.

Credit for the difference will be given on the bills to be mailed on or about March 1. In other words, customers will be credited with ten cents for every thousand cubic feet of gas used between January 1 and the February meter reading, bills for which will go out on or about March 1.

This, of course, cannot apply to prepay meters. It is necessary to change each of the more than 13,000 prepay meters in order to make the new rate effective for these meters.

These changes will be made just as rapidly as it is physically possible to make them.

Careful records will be kept of the gas consumed through prepay meters and, when the changes have been made, refunds will be made to all customers using this type of meter.

It is estimated that it will be possible to change all prepay meters by the latter part of March and that refunds can be made during the month of April. This will be done at the quickest possible moment.

This advertisement is published in order that gas users may know that all gas used since January 1 will be at the new rate.

GEORGIA FORESTS

New Association Will Work for Necessary Laws and for Creation of Strong Public Sentiment.

Plans for conservation of Georgia forests by stringent legislation and the creation of a strong public sentiment were discussed and a resolution changing the Georgia forestry committee into the Georgia Forestry association, was adopted at a conference of the committee with state, city and club representatives Monday afternoon at the Ansley hotel. M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, presided.

Co-operation with the committee in the work for the preservation of Georgia forests was pledged at the conference by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, State Senator Robert C. Ellis, W. A. Sutton, superintendent of forestry schools; Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Resolution Adopted.

The resolution which was presented by C. B. Harman, treasurer of the committee, and which was unanimously adopted, follows:

Whereas, The Georgia Forestry committee has begun the most important work of the state in the subject of forestry and will continue the work on a well-defined plan; and

Whereas, a number of public spirited citizens have made liberal contributions toward the financing of the publicity and educational work of this committee; and

Whereas, The Georgia Forestry committee now has an executive secretary in the field who will actively devote his entire time to the work of this committee and the perfecting of its plans and purposes, therefore,

Resolved, That this committee, as organized, also function as the Georgia Forestry association until such time as the executive committee of this organization shall call a state convention to elect officers, adopt constitution and by-laws and other details for permanent and distinctive organization to be acted upon by the qualified voting membership of this committee, at said convention.

Plan Organization.

The adoption of this resolution came as a consequence of the recent extension plan of the forestry committee, which is now endeavoring to bring about the establishment of forestry clubs in every Georgia county. The purpose of this plan is to develop a compact and effective organization as a means toward salvaging the state's devastated forest areas and replanting them with trees. Governor Hardwick stressed the necessity of a strong organization, which would include every Georgia-loving citizen and organization. It was pointed out at the conference that at the present rate of depletion of Georgia forests, there would be none left to deplete in ten years, and that Georgia would have to depend entirely on the importation of wood.

Bonell H. Stone, chairman of the Georgia forestry committee, which is the committee recently authorized by the Southern Forestry congress, said that the center of wood production was formerly in the south, but that it has now shifted to the west, which should cause us to stop and think and act. "The pioneers feared the forest," he said. "They wanted clear places for their crops, and the red-skin skulked in the forests. We now have one of the best forestry schools in the country—the University of Georgia—through that institution, and others which I hope we will get, we may be able to bring public opinion to the point where all people will aid in our endeavor to conserve Georgia forests."

At present, some people have such crude ideas that the burning of the forest is better than the forest is burnt. Negroes in south Georgia burn the forests, thinking the price of admission to be killed, and other people think that by burning the forest in winter time, the soil will be better and the winter quarters will be destroyed."

Sensor Ellis Speaks.

Sensor Ellis gave an illustration of how young people will, without any compensation whatever, burn trees, and then declared that the state should immediately put a course in forestry in every school, for, if public opinion is so steered that it will not carelessly destroy forests, we will have gone a long way towards settling the problem of conservation."

Massell to Erect Business Places at Cost of $55,000.

Erection of two business buildings at a total cost of $55,000 is planned at an early date by the Massell Realty company, according to announcement Monday by Ben Massell.

A four-story brick building will be built on a lot fronting 40 feet on the west side of Whitehall street, adjoining the Trinity avenue corner property, and running back 100 feet. The proposed structure has been leased to the Clanton & Webb Co., school supply dealers. The structure will cost about $40,000.

A two-story building, 57 by 100, will be erected on the southwest corner of Edgewood avenue and Hilliard street, at a cost of $15,000. The tenants will be the Trio laundry and the E. A. Bostrom Manufacturing company.

Parson—"What's that? This watch will not be repaired until next May?"

Try Conservation.

Governor Hardwick in his speech stated that other countries, especially those of Europe, had seen the necessity of conservation and that we should profit by their example. Mrs. Thornton said that she had visited in a recent visit to Europe the fact that the devastated area in France is being planted with American tree seeds, and that England also is planting trees. She said that wood played an important part in the world war, and that England was necessitated to borrow American forests to aid her in getting sufficient wood from her colonies.

Governor Hardwick said that he had noticed during his lifetime the depletion of Georgia forests; declared that Georgia had been prodigally blessed with forests and had prodigally used them. "The time has come," he said, "when law should prohibit wanton depletion of our forests. If I had my way in making the laws I would compel the man who cut down a tree to replace it by planting another."

Mrs. Boykin said that she would like to see a foresting track placed on our highways as they are in Germany. She said that planting fruit and nut trees at intervals with the flowering trees would be a desirable achievement.

A telegram from J. G. Peters, chief of the eastern division of the United States forestry service, was read at the conference. He said that he was unable to be present because of the snowstorm at Washington. S. G. McLendon, secretary of the committee, said his regrets at not being able to attend.

"I am profoundly impressed with the importance of the forestry work," said Mr. McLendon's letter, "in the matter of forest preservation and forest reforestation. Government figures show that the original area covered by southern pine forests was 125,000,000 acres, of which the estimated quantity of lumber was 650,000,000 feet. The present estimate is 25,000,000 acres of standing pine forests. These figures show that 80 per cent of our pine forests have been cut away and the south is seriously threatened with an impending and visible calamity."

It is understood that the meeting for organizing a permanent Georgia Forestry association will be held in May, probably in Atlanta. The executive committee, which has the matter in charge is composed of Miss Alice Baxter, chairman, of Atlanta; R. H. Stone, Blairsville; H. G. Spahr, and C. B. Harman, both of Atlanta.

McCord Suggests Plan to Relieve Theater Victims

While Washington mourns at the death of a child, after Saturday's disaster in the collapse of the Knickerbocker theater, a plan for the relief of the stricken victims and the dependents of the dead, comes from a sister city in the suggestion of Joseph A. McCord, chairman of the board of trustees of the Federal Reserve bank, of Atlanta. Mr. McCord proposes that all motion picture houses throughout the United States give their receipts for two or three days for the benefit of those who were injured or killed in the disaster.

In addition, said Mr. McCord, the motion picture associations might supplement the fund, so as to assure the beneficiaries $5,000 for the death of a member of a family, and a gratuity amount to persons who were seriously injured in any way. In this way, much of the suffering will be relieved from the catastrophe would be alleviated.

Mr. McCord stated that he believed that the public would be won to such a plan, if it were organized and put into operation, but that many would be willing and glad to give more than the price of admission to relieve the plight of the victims of the theater collapse.

"This is just a thought that occurred to me," said Mr. McCord, "but I believe that the people of the United States are anxious to join in some plan to aid those who were so suddenly and terribly maimed and the dependents of those whose lives were blotted out in the Washington disaster."

RESOURCES TO RECEIVE FUNDS

Cloudy and Probable Rain is Scheduled

A cloudy and probably rainy day, with little or no change in the temperature, is predicted for today by C. F. von Herrmann, local weather forecaster, who intimated that the outlook for the week indicates more unsettled weather, with temperatures near or below normal.

Mr. von Herrmann said that an early spring is not to be expected, even though Monday was fairly warm, the temperature ranging around 40 degrees in the earlier part of the day, rising somewhat toward noon. Rains which began in Texas and spread over the southern states about 40 degrees in the vicinity of Atlanta, he stated. Fortunately for Atlanta, the storm which reached its height in Washington, causing the disaster Saturday, put on a milder form when it passed over Atlanta, said the weather man.

January has been very near the average in rainfall, the total rain for the month up to date being 5.03 inches. For the last forty years the average for January has been 5.30 inches. The lowest recorded was 2.50 in 1888. The lowest recorded since January recorded since the office was established more than forty years ago was 1.35 in 1914.

Cold weather persists in other parts of the country. The lowest temperature at 7 a. m. Monday over the United States was 28 degrees below zero at Havre, Mont. Atmospheric pressure in the Canadian border is high. A distinct disturbance over the central part of the southern plateau region is accompanied by rains and unsettled weather conditions generally.

CONSUMERS OF GAS WILL GET REBATE BY COURT ACTION

The new gas rate of $1.55 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas in Atlanta and $1.05 in the suburbs, which was ordered by the federal court, dates back to January 1, although the bills to be received by the patrons around February 1 for January are based on the old rate of $1.05. The officers of the Georgia Railway and Power company announced yesterday that the bills had been made out before the order of the United States court fixing the rate at $1.55 had been received and that a credit of ten cents on each thousand cubic feet of gas used in January would be made on the bills for February.

Christian Science Paper in Hands of New Trustees

The friction between the directors and the trustees of the Christian Science Publications at Boston over the paper, has been charged by the directors by the supreme court of Massachusetts, according to a telegram received yesterday by Walter H. Bedard, chairman of the publication committee of the Christian Science church in Georgia.

Several months ago the directors discharged one of the trustees aiding in publishing the church papers but the trustee secured an injunction against the directors prohibiting them from interfering with the publication of the papers. The higher court held that the directors were right in discharging the trustee and that they had the authority to look after the publication of the church papers.

MISS UPSHAW BETTER, DECLARES TELEGRAM

Latest word from Washington states that the condition of Miss Caroline Upshaw, niece of Congressman Upshaw, who was injured in the Knickerbocker theater disaster, is slightly improved, although it is still critical, according to Mrs. G. B. Lindsey, of College Park, who is a sister to the congressman.

NEGRO WOMAN REPORTS THEFT OF HER CLOTHES

Roberta Scott, a negro woman living in the rear of 1124 Piedmont avenue, reported to police Monday night that clothing valued at between $500 and $600 had been stolen from her by a burglar who entered her dwelling. Included among the articles stolen, she said, were a large number of crepe de chine and Georgette waists and stolen garments.

NEGRO IS ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Lloyd Thomas, aged 23, a negro, of 17 Ashby place, was arrested, charged with murder, by Officers Hood and Stearns Monday night. It is alleged that he murdered a negro named Ed Green by stabbing him to death on July 31, 1921. Green lived at 30 1-2 Decatur street.

BIG STREET WORK WILL START SOON

Virtual agreement to pave with granite blocks Marietta and Decatur streets, front of Jones avenue on Marietta to Yonge street on Decatur, a distance of about 26 blocks, to begin at an early date, was reached Monday at a conference between representatives of the city, county and the Georgia Railway and Power company.

The county has agreed to pay the city's share of the cost, provided the pavement is laid all the way from Jones avenue to Yonge street. This would amount to about $74,000. It is estimated.

It is proposed to lay granite blocks on a concrete foundation. The project will embrace about 33,000 square yards and will cost approximately $300,000. The street railway's share would amount to something like $100,000, it is said, and the property owners will pay the balance.

The conference was attended by Alderman C. L. Chosewood, chairman of the council street committee; H. L. Searles, chairman of the city street committee; B. M. Hall; Oscar Miller and George M. Hope, representing the Fulton county commissioners; C. A. Searles, representing the city of Decatur; and A. D. Greenfield, representing property owners.

The project will begin at once the preparation of specifications so that immediate bids may be asked for, just as soon as a final answer comes from the power company announcing readiness to start its part of the work.

ATLANTA RECEIVES Letter From Victim Of Theater Tragedy

Two of the victims of the Knickerbocker theater disaster in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Eldridge, were close personal friends of Miss Myrtle White, executive secretary of the Atlanta Baptist ministers' conference and the executive committee of the Atlanta Baptist association Monday at 11:15 o'clock in the First Baptist church on Peachtree street. Louis D. Newton, editor of the paper, addressed the body and outlined plans for the campaign which is to be launched in March to increase the number of subscribers. The present circulation of The Christian Index is 27,000, and is greater than that of any other Baptist paper in the country.

Frederick J. Paxon, an officer of the Atlanta Baptist council, also spoke, telling of the co-operation and stimulated interest that exists between the Atlanta Baptist ministers and Baptist churches of the city.

By a vote of the council, it has been recommended to the various Baptist churches that the budget plan be adopted by which each church will place the paper in the home of every member, paying for the subscriptions from the annual budget.

TWO BIG CHANGES IN FORD PROPOSAL

Important Modifications Disclosed in Copy of Contract Sent to Senator Harris.

Washington, January 30.—Two important modifications of the original proposal of Henry Ford for the purchase and operation of the Muscle Shoals Alabama power and nitrate projects were contained in an official copy of the contract signed by Mr. Ford received today by Senator Harris, of Georgia.

Appointment of a commission by the president was provided in the contract as finally approved which would be empowered to determine whether the contract was being strictly observed with respect to the production of fertilizer companies and whether the contractor was retaining profits in excess of the 8 per cent return allowed him. The other change was an agreement by Mr. Ford to pay an annual rental of 4 per cent on whatever sum was necessary to complete dam number three.

Original Offer.

In its original form the contract provided for payment of rental only on the sum which Mr. Ford estimated would be the maximum required to complete dam number three. The government experts were of the opinion that Mr. Ford's estimate was far below the cost which would have to be met. The modification, therefore, removed one of the points in dispute between the government and the Detroit manufacturer's agents.

The proposed commission would have the right to determine "what has been cost of manufacture and sale of fertilizer products and the price which has been charged therefor and if necessary for the purpose of limiting the annual profit to 8 per cent as aforesaid, shall regulate the price at which said fertilizer may be sold by the company."

Nine On Commission.

The commission would consist of nine members, seven of whom would be chosen by the president, the other two to be representatives of the Ford company. The seven members, the contract provides, shall be selected by the president from a list of 21 names, seven submitted by each of the "three leading representative farm organizations, national in fact, namely: The American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, or their successors." They must be confirmed by the senate.

It provided also that a representative of the bureau of markets of the department of agriculture shall serve on the commission in an advisory capacity.

Fertilizer Guarantees.

With respect to guarantees that the Tennessee river project will be used for the production of fertilizers which may be sold cheaply to the agricultural interests, the offer of Mr. Ford, a copy of which has been sent to Senator Harris, of Georgia, contains the following provisions:

"The company agrees to operate nitrate plant No. 2 at the approximate present annual capacity of its machinery and equipment in the production of nitrogen and other fertilizer compounds, which shall be sold at approximately 110,000 tons of ammonia nitrate per annum throughout the lease period, except as it may be increased by the company, or other causes beyond its control, and further agrees:

"(a) To determine by research whether by means of better farming methods and industrial chemistry, there may be produced on a commercial scale fertilizer compounds of higher grade and at lower price than fertilizer using farmers have in the past been able to obtain, and to determine whether in a broad way the application of electricity and industrial chemistry may accomplish for the agricultural industry of the country what they have economically accomplished for other industries.

For War Preparedness.

"(b) To maintain nitrate plant No. 2 in its present state of readiness or its equivalent for immediate operation in the manufacture of materials necessary in times of war for the production of explosives.

"In order that the farmers may be supplied with fertilizers at fair prices and without excessive profits, the company agrees that the maximum net profit which it shall make in the manufacture and sale of fertilizer products at nitrate plant No. 2 shall not exceed 8 per cent of the actual annual cost of production thereof."

Senator Harris, in discussing the guarantee provisions, said he regarded them as "eminently fair." The contract was submitted by Mr. Harris to several senators who are lawyers, and all agreed that it was "ironclad" and omitted nothing which they thought should have been contained in it.

The commission idea for control of the price, Mr. Harris regarded as a pack of the genuine Bealman's Gas-Tablets, take them as directed, and feel the immediate beneficial results.

BOND ORDINANCE AMENDMENT VOTED BY CITY COUNCIL

In special session Monday afternoon, city council adopted an amendment to the bond ordinance making the place of payment for bonds of the $8,850,000 bond issue at the option of the holder. This was the only change suggested by the firm of legal experts called on by the bond commission to render an opinion on the issue.

Council also adopted a resolution by the finance committee formally appropriating $1,500,000 for waterworks improvements. Expenditure of this money will be divided as follows: $750,000; raw water mains from the river to the reservoir, $750,000; pumps and connections at the river station, $150,000; smokstack at Hemphill station, $17,500; engineering, distribution mains and contingencies, $82,700.

Council passed resolutions authorizing additional electric lights in the fourth, ninth and eleventh wards.

PROPOSED VIADUCT ENGINEER ASSAILED

given as "the unusually light type of design and reinforcement; the poor quality of the concrete at critical points; the doubtful nature of the foundation strata, which should have been rigidly developed at each pier over its entire extent; the tremie concreting, and discontinuous concreting, in combination with the omission of vertical reinforcement in the piers."

Stand by Ashley.

Mr. Ashley asserted that the firm's record on the Florida project ought to be sufficient reason for any council member to vote against placing the viaduct job in its hands.

"I have no personal motive in this fight," he said, "but with the knowledge of these facts in my possession I would not be doing my duty toward the council and toward the people if I didn't oppose this appointment."

In his speech the councilman also answered a statement by Walter G. Cooper, chairman of the bond commission's viaduct committee, criticizing the construction of the viaduct on street viaduct. "Grant Wilkins, an Atlanta engineer, and as good a one as ever trod shoe leather, built the south approach," Mr. Ashley stated. "An outside firm built the north approach, and it is the north approach that is falling down. The bond committee said the bridge has no expansion joints. It has expansion joints. They are covered with sheet iron, as is usual on structures of that type. I guess the bond committee thought there were no expansion joints because they couldn't find cracks big enough to drop a child through."

Moves to Refer Back.

Councilman J. C. Murphy suggested that the bond commission's recommendation be referred back to that body with instructions to investigate Mr. Ashley's data and report again to council.

Councilman Edgar Watkins stated that John Lyle Harrington, a member of the firm, was present in the building, and he offered a motion that council give its unanimous consent to hear from him. Mr. Ashley objected, stating that Mr. Harrington could not be heard until he had been removed, but immediately reconsidered and withdrew his objections. Councilman Cook then objected.

This carried the floor to Mr. Harrington unless council by a majority vote should resolve itself into a committee of the whole to hear him speak. Councilman Nutting moved that council take this action, but his motion was defeated.

The viaduct appointment was scheduled to be decided at the last regular meeting of council, but through an oversight was not presented. Alderman Goodhart pressed for action on the question Monday. Councilman J. H. Olson, chairman of the bridge committee, requested that the matter be held in abeyance until the next meeting, but was overruled by a majority vote for prompt and definite progress.

Harrington Makes Statement.

In a statement which he gave out following the council session, when details of the attack on his firm were called to his notice, Mr. Harrington said that the Florida job furnished the only mishap that the company has ever experienced in the construction of approximately $100,000,000 worth of structures.

The failure resulted entirely from defective methods of construction adopted by the contractor and unfortunately accepted by our engineer without reference to the home office, a clear case of defective judgment, he said.

Mr. Harrington declared that a thorough check of the plans and specifications had revealed no fault in their preparation. "Mr. Howard went to the bridge after the bridge fell," stated Mr. Harrington. "He put on a diver's

FARMERS' UNION OF STATE CALLED TO MEET IN MACON

President J. H. Mills has issued a call for the state convention of the Georgia Farmers' union in Macon, February 8 and 9, at the city hall auditorium, and a program of interesting addresses on co-operative marketing, legislative needs of farmers and reports on different departments of work of the Farmers' union during the past year, has been arranged.

The principal speaker will be Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' union, a position which he has held for more than fifteen years. Mr. Barrett has been in Washington for the past several weeks both as a delegate to the national agricultural conference and as a member of the advisory council of the department of agriculture.

Mr. Thompson also said that he would send representatives to Atlanta to discuss the proposal at any time the local chamber wished.

Blames Contractor.

"This method of filling the spandrels and the defective method of the arch and caused pier nine to slide on the defective construction joint. This unbalanced loading was contrary to terms of the specifications while the defective construction joint in pier nine resulted from improper method of placing concrete in the piers."

Where Error Was Made.

"There is no question regarding a sufficiency of rock stratum on which the piers are founded. The method of placing concrete under water with the tremie has long been in general use with satisfactory results. The only error was in the contractor's failure to pour a pier completely at one operation."

"The suggestion that the piers should have been reinforced in ignorance on the part of the reporter. Such piers are substantially never reinforced, and there is no need whatever of reinforcing them."

"The statement that the causes of failure are unknown and no endeavor is being made to determine them is being made in fact, for complete investigations have been made into every item that could have caused failure, and the condition of the pier alleged to have disappeared is fully known."

PASTOR WILL ARRANGE KIWANIAN PROGRAM

Dr. J. Spole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and chairman of the Kiwanis club, is chairman of the entertainment committee to furnish a program for the club's weekly luncheon Tuesday. Dr. Claude N. Hughes, well known dentist, is also on the entertainment committee. The luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock at the Enoch cafe.

WOMAN CRUSHED BY WHEEL OF CAR

ant states that he struck Mrs. Hulms while driving at about 15 miles an hour. He said that he did not know he had struck her until he felt the automobile passing over her body.

In a head-on collision between an automobile and a street car on Capitol avenue shortly after 6 o'clock Monday, a man, said to be a Mr. Lawrence, whose address could not be ascertained, was seriously cut and bruised, and was sent to his home in a private ambulance. He was taken to the hospital after his injuries had been treated.

According to reports of officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company, the street car was inbound and piloted by Motorman C. L. Trimble, while the automobile, said to have been driven by the injured man, was outbound. Had the street car not been going at a rapid rate of speed, it is believed it would have resulted fatally for the occupant of the automobile.

Hurled from the car and cut by flying glass caused by the impact, the man was picked up in a dashed condition, and the street car arrived at the station. The crash occurred on Capitol avenue, near its intersection with Rawson street.

Will Tonsel, a 6-year-old negro boy, of 22 Glaser street, was struck down by an automobile which police state was driven by a negro named C. E. Ellington, of 238-A Piedmont avenue. The accident occurred at 6:15 o'clock at Houston street and Piedmont avenue. The boy was taken to Grady hospital, where physicians stated that some of his teeth had been knocked out. Ellington was held at police headquarters, charged with reckless driving.

Cardinals Ready To Open Conclave To Elect Pontiff

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Rome, January 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The sacred college was completed today as it will start deliberations on Thursday next to elect a pontiff. Fifty-three cardinals are now present in Rome, and they will compose the conclave at its opening session. The arrival of Cardinal Logue, primate of all Ireland, completed the list of electors for the early meetings, from which seven cardinals will be absent—Prisco, archbishop of Naples; Martin de Herrera, archbishop of Santiago de Compostella, Spain; Arcorede, archbishop of Rio de Janeiro; De Stribinsky, archbishop of Olmutz; O'Connell, archbishop of Boston; Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, and Begin, archbishop of Quebec.

The cardinals are, for the time being, staying at the various colleges and monasteries, according to their nationality. Cardinals O'Connell and Dougherty probably will stay at the American college.

On Thursday the 53 cardinals will enter the vatican, there to remain until they have a successor to Benedict XV. The sacred college met today to make final arrangements respecting rules.

NOONDAY BAPTISTS ELECT OFFICIALS

The Sunday school convention of the Noonday Baptist association, which met at Canton Saturday and Sunday, elected the following officers for next year, it was announced here Monday:

Homer L. Conn, Canton, president; E. M. McCanless, Canton, secretary; H. G. McFarle, Woodstock, and Rev. G. V. Crow, Marietta, vice presidents; and Mrs. O. D. Perkins, Woodstock, elementary superintendent. The convention raised a fund of approximately $1,500 to be used in developing and extending Sunday school work in the Noonday association.

Among visiting speakers on the program were Dr. Arch C. Cree, Atlanta, executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention; Dr. B. W. J. Graham, Atlanta; Dr. J. W. O'Hara, Cartersville; Mrs. O. M. Gerald, Thompson; Dr. W. C. Cuts, Blue Ridge, and James W. Merritt, Gainesville. Sunday school field secretary for Georgia Baptists.

Atlanta Is Proposed AS HIGHWAY TERMINUS

Atlanta has been proposed for the southeastern terminus of a tentative transcontinental highway to stretch from the state of Washington to the southeast, by the Oklahoma Automobile association, which will sponsor the proposed highway, and will acquire the roads at its own expense, according to a letter from President Floyd Thompson to the local chamber Monday. Mr. Thompson also said that he would send representatives to Atlanta to discuss the proposal at any time the local chamber wished.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR E. G. CLINKSCALES

Funeral services for E. G. Clinkscapes, of East Point, who died in a private hospital Saturday after being injured when a train struck an automobile in which he was riding, were conducted at 11 o'clock Monday morning at the East Point Baptist church by Rev. James A. Crumley. Interment followed in College Park cemetery, with A. C. Hemperley in charge, scalp and face.

NEW ASSISTANT POSTMASTER TAKES OFFICE WEDNESDAY

John J. Martin, whose appointment to the position of assistant postmaster for Atlanta was announced Saturday, will begin his duties on Wednesday, February 1, according to announcement Monday. He took the oath of office Monday.

CREAMERY WANTED IN BUTTS COUNTY

Jackson, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—There is a situation in all parts of Butts county for a creamery in Jackson. A cream station was established in Jackson during the past summer and has done a good business. Florilla will probably establish a milk depot in the near future. Just as soon as the number of milk cows will justify it, a creamery will be put in here, probably in connection with the Jackson ice factory, it is stated.

RYAN IS ACQUITTED OF ROBBERY CHARGE

J. J. Ryan, charged with robbery of $5 by intimidation from L. T. Cottogin on January 10, was acquitted by a jury in the criminal division of Fulton superior court Monday afternoon. The case was heard before Judge R. C. Bell, of Cairo, Albany circuit, who is presiding over an emergency division of the criminal court.

It was charged by Cottogin that Ryan took $5 from him in the former's room in a local hotel. Ryan claimed that the money belonged to him, and that he went to the room to obtain it. He was represented by Attorney Arthur Powell, Jr.

Klein at Liberty on Bond.

W. W. Klein, under federal and state indictments on bunco charges, has returned to his home in Anniston, Ala., following his release on $3,000 bond. District Attorney C. W. Hager has announced that Klein's trial will not be held during the present term of the United States court.

HARTSHIELD HEADS IMPROVEMENT CLUB

William B. Hartshield, a well-known attorney, was elected president of the Third Ward Improvement club Monday night at its permanent organization meeting in the W. T. Station school. Dr. St. J. E. Vogt was elected vice president and W. J. Hogan, secretary and treasurer. They were all elected for a term of six months.

Plans for erecting a suitable memorial to the memory of the late W. T. Grant, the donor of the city of Grant park, was discussed and the club went on record as being in favor of an immediate erection of such a memorial. The extension of the Lloyd street sewer, which was recommended in the bond commission's report and favored by council, also was discussed and a committee composed of W. J. Hogan, W. G. Holley, F. M. Dight, H. A. Williams and J. R. Brooks, was appointed to see that the extension is made. The question of compelling the reduction of the Georgia avenue-Grant park jitney fare from 10 cents to 7 cents, so as to place them on a par with the present fares of the Luckie street-Water Works jitney line, was also discussed.

The by-laws as presented at the meeting were unanimously adopted. The regular meeting of the club will be held on the third Friday nights in each month.

'AMAZON ARMY' AGAIN MARCHING IN KANSAS

Girard, Kan., January 30.—The "Amazon army" is on the move again in the southern Kansas coal fields. According to report to the office of the sheriff of Crawford county, more than 100 wives of miners are marching on the mines in an endeavor to persuade the men to quit their jobs. While the movement is believed to be purely local, steps are being taken by authorities to prevent a repetition of an outbreak of women rioters similar to one a month ago which forced miners to lay down their picks in the majority of the Kansas fields.

The women were reported to be attempting to call the men off because of alleged discrimination among certain ranks of strikers.

MRS. OLA ELDRIDGE RESTS IN GREENWOOD

Funeral services for Mrs. Ola Eldridge, of 52 Robbins street, who died Saturday in a private hospital, were conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Stewart Avenue Baptist church by Rev. J. J. Crew. Interment followed in Greenwood cemetery. Awtry and Lowndes in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Eldridge was 38 years old.

She is survived by her husband, J. O. Eldridge, Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. O. Eldridge, and two sisters, Mrs. J. O. Eldridge, and two sisters, Mrs. D. S. Mahoney and Mrs. A. Norman.

Injured in Wall.

Jackson, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Struck on the head with terrific force by a bucket of rocks that were being drawn from a well which he had been employed to clean out, Claude Norworthy, a white farmer of Florilla, was perhaps fatally injured Monday morning. The falling stones hit the young man a glancing blow on the side of the head, fracturing his skull.

MANY PRIZES WON BY N. C. & ST. L. MEN OF THIS DIVISION

Seven of a possible sixteen prizes offered by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway for the best papers upon ways of saving fuel, were won by employees of the Atlanta division of the road. This was preliminary to a coal saving contest which will be carried out in February. The Atlanta division has challenged any other division of the road to equal its record in actual saving of coal, through applying the practical suggestions made by employees.

First prizes were awarded to R. L. Squires, engineer; H. E. Butler, conductor; J. W. Helms, yardman, and W. H. Dempsey, section foreman. Second prizes were given H. G. Kelly, fireman; C. Bowman, train dispatcher, and C. Householder, boilermaker. Two hundred and eighty papers were submitted in the contest.

TO ASK INDICTMENTS OF DUPRE AIDES

as a witness, declaring that besides the girl herself, DuPre is the only one in the case who knows the actual truth about her connection with the case.

It was intimated Monday that Betty will probably be the second of the group to face trial. The charge against Geophan is based on DuPre's confession that he carried a letter sent by DuPre from Detroit addressed to The Constitution, and that he otherwise communicated with the convicted slayer by giving him information which enabled DuPre to evade arrest.

Geophan, however, emphatically denies any intention of either aiding or abetting, stating he was merely interested in the boy and wished to give him advice which would have a tendency to cause him to go straight and leave his criminal habits.

No Case Against Silverman.

There is so far no case against Max Silverman, Chattanooga pawnbroker, to whom the ring stolen from the Kaiser store was pawned by DuPre after his escape from the scene of his crime in a automobile driven by Buckley.

Under the law, accessory after the fact of murder is result in a sentence of from one to three years in the penitentiary, whereas indictment and conviction as accessory after the fact of robbery carries with it the sentence of a misdemeanor, with punishment of one year on the chain gang, six months in jail, a fine of $1,000 or any part of either or all.

Solicitor Boykin declared he expected to push the cases against the alleged accessories with as much determination as he used in prosecuting DuPre, which caused the latter to be given the extreme penalty.

There is no doubt about the woman's guilt as declared. "We shall submit a mass of evidence to support the conviction which we seek."

DuPre in Good Spirits.

DuPre, in his cell at the tower, under death sentence, was apparently in the best of spirits Monday. His only visitors were his father and his attorneys. He gave his customary smile when informed by his father that his attorneys were waging a desperate fight to obtain a new trial for him, which will be argued in Macon on February 15 before Judge Henry Matthews.

Attorneys Allen and Foster, representing DuPre, announced Monday that if the decision on motion for new trial in Macon should be adverse, they will then appeal to the supreme court.

Mrs. Toulman Williams Heads Atlanta Woman's Golf Club

Mrs. Toulman Williams was elected president of the Atlanta Woman's Golf association at their meeting Monday morning at the Georgian Terrace, succeeding Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, who has been president during the past year.

The other officers elected were: Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, vice president; Mrs. Rosalie Mayer, secretary; Mrs. L. H. Beck, treasurer; Mrs. Thos. B. Paine, chairman of the tournament and handicaps committee; Mrs. T. H. Latham and Mrs. Toulman Williams, members; Mrs. Bert McCord, representative of the Druid Hills Golf club; Mrs. J. E. Sagar, representative of the East Lake Country club; Mrs. Charles Cornell, representative of the Capital City Country club; Mrs. Guy King, representative of the Ansley Park Golf club.

Trophies Awarded.
At the end of each year the club member winning the most points is given a gold scarf pin. Only three of these pins have ever been awarded.

The year Miss Alexandra Stirling was the national women's champion she was presented with one.

Miss Rosalie Mayer won the pin for last year, and Mrs. Dozier Lowndes won this year's pin.

The pins are gold initials of the club, "A. W. G. A." and they are much coveted trophies, as they are only given to the winners of the point schedules.

Points Counted.
Points are given to the winners of the monthly tournaments, and for the ringer contests at each club; also for the winners of local and for any one making a good showing or winning an event in the Woman's Southern Golf association tournament.

Southern Tournament.
The meeting officers were responsible for the very interesting tournament of the Woman's Southern Golf association being held in Atlanta last fall.

These officers were: Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, president; Miss May O'Brien, vice president; Mrs. George Harrington, chairman of the executive board; Mrs. Nash Broyles, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Muse, secretary; Miss Alexandra Stirling, honorary member at large.

The executive board is composed of a member from each club, and these are: Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, East Lake; Mrs. T. H. Latham, Druid Hills; Mrs. Benjamin Watkins, Ansley Park; Miss Rosalie Mayer, Inglewood Country club.

Mrs. L. H. Beck, chairman of the tournament and handicaps.

The two remaining members of the board are Mrs. George Harrington and Mrs. Thomas F. Paine.

Mrs. Weed Is Guest of Honor.

Mrs. Henry B. Weed, of Savannah, who is visiting Mrs. John W. Norwood, was entertained by Mrs. B. F. Ulmer, at a lovely bridge-tee at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue yesterday afternoon.

Red roses, placed in baskets and vases adorned the apartments. The lace-covered tea table had for the central decoration, a silver vase holding red roses.

Silver compotes held red mints in the shape of hearts, and the cakes and ices were in the form of hearts. The score cards were ornamented with Valentine symbols, and the details were in the spirit of St. Valentine day. Guest, top score and consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ulmer, who was crowned in black satin, veiled in Chantilly lace.

Mrs. Weed wore blue satin, richly beaded and her hat was of black. Mrs. C. D. Asbury, assisted in entertaining and was crowned in blue Georgette crepe, beaded. Mrs. Norwood wore blue satin, with hat to match.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $1. and you have the best cough remedy you ever used.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy cures a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, breaks the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Miss Fannie Manley to Wed Morton Hawkins, of Indiana

Miss Fannie Manley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Manley, whose engagement is announced to Morton S. Hawkins, of Portland, Ind., the marriage to take place February 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Doughty Manley announce the engagement of their daughter, Fannie Manley, to Morton S. Hawkins, of Portland, Ind., the marriage to take place on the evening of Saturday, February 11, at home, Ponce de Leon road.

The announcement will center an important social interest, and the wedding, while it will not be large, will be an outstanding event in the winter's social program.

Miss Manley, who graduated last June from Mary Baldwin institute at Staunton, Va., spent the summer in Europe, returning to Atlanta in October, and while she made no formal debut is one of the most admired young women in the social world.

Pretty, distinctive in her charm, she is more interested in horsemanship and the outdoor sports than in the ballroom, although she is a recognized belle in the purely society life. She represents on both sides families of prominence in Georgia for generations, her father a descendant of the Doughtys and the Manleys of Augusta, and her mother, a lovely member of the Lamar family which has for generations been one of wealth and influence in Georgia. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Charles L. Gately.

Mr. Hawkins, whose acquaintance Miss Manley made first in London, is the son of the late Senator Nathan B. Hawkins, of Indiana, and he is the head of the banking business organized more than a hundred years ago by his grandfather in Portland. His mother and sister will come to Atlanta for the wedding.

Miss Valeria Manley will be her sister's only bridesmaid, and the wedding plans will be marked by simplicity and elegance.

Mr. Hawkins and his bride leave immediately after the wedding for Miami, where they will go aboard his yacht, and will spend two months cruising in Bermuda waters. They will return to Atlanta for opera, and will reside in Portland, where Mr. Hawkins is completing a beautiful new home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Banks will give a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club for Miss Mary Woodbridge and Miss Frances Powell, two of the season's debutantes.

Mrs. C. P. Howard will give an informal luncheon for Miss May Quinney, of Waynesboro, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. K. R. Armstrong.

Mrs. Ulmer-Atkinson will give a luncheon for Mrs. Henry B. Weed.

Mrs. Christian Clarke will give an informal bridge-tee for Mrs. Weed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McEachern will give a reception at their home to introduce their daughter, Miss Christine McEachern.

Mrs. Charles Roddy will entertain the members of her bridge club in compliment to Mrs. Ralph W. Davidson, of Montreal, Canada.

Miss Dunson To Give Dance At the Terrace

Miss Celeste Dunson, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dunson, formerly of LaGrange, will entertain at a dance at the Georgian Terrace, Friday evening, February 10. Several hundred members of society will be invited.

the guest of her sister, Mrs. Charles D. Atkinson.

Miss Christine McEachern will be honored at a supper-dance at Druid Hills Golf club, which Mr. and Mrs. McEachern will give.

Cobb Players Will Present Fine Program

The Carolyn Cobb community entertainers will present Signor Andrea Arnone as the principal speaker in a Dante symposium this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Edison hall. He will be assisted by the following speakers: Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, "The New Life"; Mrs. Georgia Stenzen, "The Structure of the Divine Comedy"; Dr. Winfield T. Woolf, "The Symbolism of Dante"; Mrs. McCord Roberts, "The Work of the Dante Society"; Mrs. A. Robertson, "Beatrice"; Mrs. Adele Bussey, "Dante as a Social Influence"; Miss Marion Otis, "Staging for a Possible Production of the Divine Comedy."

Miss Montfort Is Honored.

Miss Christine Montfort, of New York, who is visiting Mrs. Philip Wilcox, was honor guest at the bridge-tee, given by Mrs. Ivan Allen at her home on West Peachtree street.

Vases and baskets filled with pink roses and ferns decorated the apartments.

The lace-covered table in the dining room had in the center a silver vase filled with long-stemmed Columbia roses.

The honor guest prize, and for the top score at each table, were dainty hand-made handkerchiefs.

The gracious hostess was crowned in black satin finished crepe embroidered in beads.

Twelve close friends of the hostess were entertained.

Mrs. Thornburg Honor Guest.

Mrs. Howard Thornburg, of New York, who is the guest of Mrs. Charles F. Evans, will be honor guest at the bridge-tee, given by Mrs. Evans on Wednesday afternoon.

The members of the club include Mrs. L. C. McKinney, Mrs. Morris Ewing, Mrs. H. H. Johnson, Mrs. James Ison, Mrs. Harold Barnwell, Mrs. Carol McGaughey, Mrs. J. J. Near and Mrs. Herbert Miles. Other guests invited are Mrs. John Baldwin, Jr., Mrs. Homer Davis and Mrs. E. M. Chapman, Jr.

Many other social affairs have been planned for this charming visitor, the dates to be announced later.

Luncheon for Mrs. Sidney Cooper.

Mrs. Bryan More Grant has issued invitations to a luncheon at home, 24 West Eleventh street, Tuesday, February 7, in compliment to Mrs. Sidney Perry Cooper, who will arrive this week to visit Mrs. Bates Block at her home on Peachtree road.

Formal Opening of Club de Vingt.

The largest party of the series of dances which will formally open the Club de Vingt, Arthur Marry's new school of dancing, will be given on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to the parents.

Dr. Johnson To Lecture at Wesley Memorial Feb. 2

Dr. Edgar Hutchinson Johnson, professor of political economy and dean of the school of business administration at Emory, will give the third of the university extension lectures Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Wesley Memorial church. Dr. Johnson will speak on "Georgia's Present Financial Situation, and the Way Out."

Dr. Johnson, who has made a very extensive study of economics, is thoroughly well equipped to handle his subject interestingly, and his audience will undoubtedly be composed of those who enjoyed the first two lectures of the series.

Dr. Johnson was a member of the faculty of the old Emory university at Oxford, Ga., and Atlanta was fortunate in his decision to come here with the university.

This is the third lecture of the university extension series, which is being given under the auspices of the educational committee of the Council of Jewish Women, of which Mrs. Louis H. Moss is chairman.

Every one who is interested is invited to attend, and the lectures are free to the public.

As February 3 is the birthday of Sidney Lanier, of special interest is the announcement that the fourth lecture of the community series will be on Sidney Lanier by a man who is himself a poet, and who is president of Sidney Lanier's alma mater, Oglethorpe university, Dr. Thorndell Jacobs.

Appeal Made By Sewing Room.

The sewing room that was opened this morning at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree Avenue, to furnish work for unemployed women, urges Atlanta's housekeepers, who are in need of seamstresses or who have darning or mending to be done, to call the manager of the sewing room, Ivy 7022, and register with her their needs. The need for work to be done is urgent.

Luncheon for Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Victor Lamar Smith will be honor guest at the luncheon given by Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, on Tuesday, February 7, at the Piedmont Driving club. Mrs. Alex Smith, Jr., and Mrs. Charles T. Hopkins, Jr., will assist in entertaining.

HE DARKENED HIS GRAY HAIR

Tells How He Did It.

Mr. J. A. McCrea, a well-known resident of California, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost; apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—(adv.)"

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHEN THE WIFE IS SICK

Don't you think most men regard it somewhat in the light of a personal grievance when their wives are ill? I don't mean vary ill. That's another matter altogether. Anyone who is very ill becomes thereby a privileged character and all the love and tenderness for them one keeps stowed away in lavender is brought out. I once happened to meet a man for the first time when his wife was dangerously ill. His devotion to her was beautiful. Afterwards I spoke of them as a very happy couple to someone who knew them better than I and she opened her eyes and, "I fear, her mouth in astonishment. 'They quarrel like cats and dogs,' she said. When I told her on what I based my idea, she laughed. 'The whole family is notorious for that,' she said. 'They adore each other when anyone is very ill and get all over it as soon as they are better.'

The Minor Illnesses.

To return. The illness which the average husband subconsciously regards as a grievance, a personal insult, is the minor one—the sick headache, the backache, the sore throat, the spell of overtired nerves. He is always sure that it was totally unnecessary, that the only thing which caused it was his wife's persistence in doing something that he doesn't regard as essential—fussing over the children too much, keeping up with unnecessary social obligations, doing too much for some of her relatives. He would like to sympathize with her, but, in view of the fact that the thing that must have caused it (no matter how much else she does) is that one thing which he disapproves, he really feels he ought not to.

Contagious illnesses. Another peculiar thing about husbands and their wives minor illnesses is this. There seems to be something contagious about them. I don't mean that the husband actually catches the specific disease, but—well, this is a friend of mine says about her husband: "I never yet felt absolutely miserable that Henry didn't say, 'Well, I don't feel very well myself.'

Did you ever meet Henry's twin brother?

How midvictorian wives who were always more or less ailing ever got by is something I often wonder about when I am reminded of those days when so many women "enjoyed ill health."

Impatient Husbands Please Take Note. In a recent magazine was a jest which delighted me because of its relation to this subject.

The old German's wife had died and in the interim before the funeral the old man was smoking his pipe and thumping it over. Finally he came out with this, "Nu, maybe the old woman was sick after all."

Impatient husbands who think their wives are ailing just to annoy them are invited to consider the above.

Tomorrow—A Form of Painless Giving.

Mr. Wolfson Entertained At Dinner.

In honor of his eightieth birthday David Wolfson was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. Goettinger, Miss Dora Goettinger and Carl Goettinger at their home on Ponce de Leon place at a family dinner on Sunday, January 22.

This will be an instructive and interesting lecture and all interested in the philosophy of life are invited to this meeting.

Who's Who in the Story.

Jeanne (Jane) Dare, beautiful clever, but poor resolves to stake everything to achieve a wealthy marriage and, after raising all the money she can through mortgages, savings and borrowings, aided unwittingly by Henry Harrison, her childhood sweetheart, and hopeless suitor for her hand, comes to New York, where she believes eligible men are to be found, and establishes herself as a woman of wealth and fashion at one of the smartest hotels, where she meets Richard Canby, a wealthy broker and man-about-town, who is attracted by her beauty and introduces her into his set, in which are

Adelle Parkinson, a vivacious young widow, former flame of Canby's, who befriends Jeanne, and Victor Barstow, young, handsome, debonair, only son of a multimillionaire, whom Jeanne marks as her prey.

Barstow is instantly attracted and comes to tea when Jeanne persuades Signor Bonnicetti, a famous Italian violinist, also smitten with her beauty, to play for her guests.

The Weary Round of Pleasure.

Sometimes Jeanne, dragging herself wearily down the silent sleeping corridor from the elevator at a hotel shortly before dawn, would wonder if the game were worth the candle after all.

Sometimes it seemed to her to be physically impossible to rise again that day and begin the endless round, starting with luncheon at the Ritz; a shower at some residence up the drive perhaps; two and often three teas to be attended in the course of the afternoon; dinner after a breathless and exhausting toilet during which the French maid endeavored with deft fingers to smooth away the signs of fatigue with fragrant creams; the theater or opera; a supper-dance somewhere, and home again for a few hours' rest before the treadmill began to revolve anew.

It was at such hours before dawn, when, too weary for sleep, her brain a discordant jangle, she would go to the windows and look out across the park where the first faint streaks of dawn appeared above the sleeping city.

She would recall the long, dark winter nights when Jane Dare, the little school teacher, had snuggled down into her blankets for ten hours' repose. She would remember the radiant exuberance with which she had opened her eyes when the first rays of the sun crept through her dormer window. The freshness, the energy, the pep, she had known on those days! No wonder she had felt capable of conquering the world!

Jeanne Dare would lean her weary, throbbing head against the chill window pane and pray for strength to get through another day. She had thought she would lose this hectic existence, and she found that suddenly it was terrifying. And back of her physical weariness lay the mental stress, the knowledge that she was spending thousands and thousands of dollars which she didn't have and could never hope to have if anything happened to break off her marriage to Barstow.

To accomplish her ambition of being a social success, she had been bound to her by an ever-strengthening chain of abject and complete adoration.

One night, when she came in, she dismissed her maid, after the latter had assisted her into a loose lounging robe and taken the French-heeled, brilliant buckled slippers from her weary feet.

"You may go now, Celeste. I'm too tired to sleep. I shall try to rest a while before going to bed. Will you bring me any mail that came this evening?"

The girl brought a small stack of letters and handed them to Jeanne. She tucked a pillow deftly under the drooping shoulders, adjusted the light beside the couch, and stepped back, hesitating a moment.

"Would madame like hot chocolate? With perhaps a soupçon of a sleeping potion? Oui?"

Jeanne shook her head.

"It will only make me dozy tomorrow, and I have an early engagement, haven't I?"

The girl nodded sympathetically.

"Madame Forbes gave a breakfast at 11."

"Breakfast? Oh dear!" breathed Jeanne, but she rushed herself with a sigh.

"All right, Celeste. Wake me at 10, but not a minute before. Good night."

Left alone, Jeanne's head dropped into the friendly pillow. She relaxed her whole beautiful body and lay scarcely breathing for fully ten minutes. Then the subdued musical clime of the little French clock in her sitting room roused her to the lateness or rather the earliness of the hour, and she picked up her letters.

The first envelope caused her a start.

Hearing From Aunt Emily.

It was addressed in Aunt Emily's firm, precise handwriting.

Jeanne opened it quickly. It contained a news clipping with a picture of herself, bearing the caption: "Beautiful Bride-to-be of One of America's Richest Young Men. Announcement in Made Engagement of Miss Jeanne Dare to Victor Barstow, Son of Multi-Millionaire."

"Dear Niece," Aunt Emily had written. "The picture enclosed and to find out that you were going to marry a multi-millionaire. Mrs. Jones' son, Tom, saw it a week ago in a Chicago paper, but I said it couldn't be you on account of the name; but then I remembered that you always were that romantic and wanting us to call you 'Jeanne,' instead of Jane after your own father's mother like you were christened. So Mrs. Jones wrote to Tom and he cut out the picture and sent it to us. You look right stylish, Jane, but we all recognized you right away."

"We hadn't heard from you since

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Damp Cloth and Cake Pans.

A cake that sticks to the pan can be easily removed by wrapping a damp cloth around the pan.

Care of Brooms.

A broom should never be thrown away when it begins to show signs of wear. After sweeping it in hot sun, and drying it in the sun, cut the bristles so that they are even lengths again.

Overcoming Dust Nests.

Drive a small bone-headed tack into each lower corner of the back of a picture frame to hold it out from the wall. This will cause the air to circulate behind it and prevent unsightly dust lines on the wallpaper behind pictures.

Value of Old Newspapers.

Save old newspapers. They can be put to various uses about the house. They are fine for wiping greasy pans, and are a substitute for window cloths. Newspapers are effective for wrapping woolen materials as a protection against moths, and are handy for covering fixtures, etc., about the rooms when cleaning house.

For the Notebook.

An apple is said to be the best tooth polish.

On the beating of pancakes depends when eaten raw than when cooked.

If vinegar is rubbed over the cut ends of the hair, it will prevent the hair from falling out.

"Scrubbing chair" on rollers saves sore knees and means less back-breaking.

Make silk stockings last longer, wash them in cold water. Soap should never be used.

You left with that crazy idea of yours about making more money in New York, and your uncle and I got right worried; but Henry said he'd seen you when he went east, and that you were looking all right and acting happy. I guess this Mr. Barstow must have been the man you worked for, ain't he? I don't suppose you could have met a multi-millionaire any other way.

"Well, Jane, I hope you'll be happy, though it does seem as though there's a smart difference between you and me and people like you. You're pretty, though, so maybe it'll be all right. Goodness knows I'll be relieved to have you married and settled down! You always were a wild one, having such queer ideas and wanting to act like a society girl."

"Now that you're going to have a lot of money, I hope you won't get your head turned and be ashamed of us who raised you. We did our best by you when you people did it and it wasn't always easy, what with our own big family and your uncle never making much in the business anyway. Charles, Junior, ought to go to college. I've set my heart on it, but goodness knows where the money's coming from! The house needs to be painted, and I declare I'm ashamed of the parlor furniture, it's that worn. Your uncle and I got it the first year we were married. The rest of the children are growing so fast it's all we can do to keep them in clothes, and I haven't had a new dress for five years. I'd like to come to your wedding but I guess you'd be ashamed of me and your uncle in our shabby clothes among all his rich folks."

"Henry seems right down in the mouth. I guess he will miss you. We all send our love."

"Your loving Aunt Emily."

P. S. Mrs. Jones wants the pattern of your wedding dress, and I'd like a piece of wedding cake in one of those little white boxes like all the rich folks have.

There Are Many Fashionable Spots

Where the Spanish or Second Empire Skirt Is Regarded as an Acceptable Fashion and the Paris Designers Again Predict It in Their New Spring Collections.

It is not easy to get a settled opinion on the exact fashionable standing of the full skirt that goes variously under the name of Second Empire or Spanish. It is the same, no matter what the happenings, but the bodice changes according to the designer's whim. Two great Parisian designers are credited with reviving this kind of costume, Poiret and Lanvin, and each interprets the bodice according to individuality, and, therefore, proclaims its origin.

Lanvin, for instance, does according to the Second Empire manner as it was worn by the youthful Eugénie when she captivated Napoleon at the French court, before troubles descended upon them; the sketch of today shows this treatment of the famous frock, but the designer has taken it out of the usual pastel colorings and shown that the colorful age is upon us. Against the black taffeta are immense medallions of gold worked in a pattern of red, black and green velvet. The distinguishing feature is the short, slim bodice which is half covered with a medallion, the sleeves, or the apologies for them, are like lotus leaves laid on top of the arm.

Now, if Paul Poiret had designed this frock he would have used the same coloring, possibly, for it belongs more to him than to the shell shades of Lanvin, but he would have worked his bodice down to the hips and wrinkled it as it went in a straight line to join the skirt gathered at the hips, for he is an Orientalist.

The continuance of such skirts is of more interest than the details of their making. One art of the French collector leads the mind to the kind of tight drapery that belonged to the era when White Sulphur was the Mecca of the southerners and Long Branch of the northerners. Many of these new skirts sweep the ankles in narrow bias lines and there is almost the suggestion of a bustle on the hips. The back is so plain in a straight line to join the skirt gathered at the hips, for he is an Orientalist.

Famous Flonzaley Quartet To Play Here Next Saturday

If you love music, need you be told who they are? Silhouette of the Flonzaley quartet—Adolfo Betti, first violin; Louis Bailly, viola; Alfred Pochom, second violin, and Iwan d'Archembeau, cello.

When Alfred Pochom, second violinist of the Flonzaley quartet, which plays here Saturday, opened his Christmas gifts he found among them a small manuscript written for the violin. It was exquisitely done in ink by hand and at the top was the dedication:

"To Alfred Pochom from Charles Skilton."

Even before opening the rest of his gifts, Mr. Pochom took up his violin and played the music. But he could make no sense out of it. There was a charming theme, then many bars of tests, then the theme again in singularly detached phrases, and so it went on to the end. He thought this exceedingly strange, as he knew Mr. Skilton to be a composer of established reputation and a leading member of the faculty of the School of Fine Arts, at the University of Kansas. He tried, over and over, to play the music so that it sounded like a real composition. Then he gave it up.

Later in the day the quartet had a rehearsal. Mr. Pochom put the manuscript in his pocket. He would ask his conferees what they could make out of it.

No sooner had he arrived at the rehearsal than he drew forth the manuscript. At that very moment Adolfo Betti drew forth a similar one from his pocket. Mr. d'Archembeau and Mrs. Bailly followed suit. Almost simultaneously the four men said:

"I received a manuscript dedicated to me from Charles Skilton, but I can't make anything out of it."

Mr. Betti laid the four copies on a table and looked at them intently. Then he laughed, joyfully.

"It's a funny! We have each received our parts as a personal gift," Pochom, Louis Bailly and Iwan d'Archembeau crowded around the table. They, too, examined the copies. And they saw that Betti was right.

Without a word each man walked to his music desk, manuscript in hand. And so it happened that the first time the Flonzaley quartet played together on this Christmas day of 1921 was this unique gift which proved to be a most charming little fugue based on an old Christmas carol and composed especially for them by Mr. Skilton.

Then each man put his manuscript back in his pocket and vowed that never before had he received so perfect a Christmas gift.

The Atlanta Music club is bringing this famous organization, whose coming is now almost an annual event, so popular is the demand for them, for a matinee concert Saturday at 3:30 o'clock, at Eggleston hall. It will be one of the most distinguished artistic events of the winter.

Atlanta Music Club Will Show Dance Evolution

Just as operas each year give premonition of the pleasure to be anticipated of opera, so the "Evolution of the Dance," a lecture by Mrs. William Claer Spiker, will be preparatory to the coming of Paviava and her dancers next week.

Mrs. Spiker will be presented by the Music club on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Eggleston hall, this time in place of the program usually provided on Wednesday mornings, and after the lecture the Spiker dancers will give a delightful series of dances.

Members of the club will be admitted on presentation of their membership cards, others on the payment of 50 cents.

Gift of Value To Habersham Chapter.

Mrs. William Lawson Peel is the recipient of a valuable addition to the historical collection of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R.

This is a very old parchment taken by Union soldiers from the state capitol at Milledgeville during the war between the states.

The paper, bearing the date, February 7, 1770, is a set of 14 general assembly "for ascertaining the qualifications of jurors and for establishing the method of balloting and summoning jurors in the province of Georgia."

The state seal is attached, and Governor James Habersham's name is signed.

P. O. Hebert, of Atlanta, presented this gift to Mrs. Peel with the following statement:

"This parchment was obtained through the courtesy of John G. McDowell, of New York, who desired that same be turned over to those who, from an historical standpoint, would preserve same."

Mr. McDowell obtained same from papers of his father, Major R. McDowell, chief topographical engineer of Sherman's army on the march through Georgia.

These papers were produced from the capitol at Milledgeville, when Major McDowell was in search for maps and other papers.

Means will be taken at an early date for the care of this valuable document, along with others that have been presented to the chapter from time to time.

Dinner-Dance at East Lake Club.

Prominent among the social affairs of the week-end was the dinner-dance at East Lake Country club, which was largely attended by members and their visitors.

P. R. Boussines entertained Miss Dorothy Isenminger and Mr. and Mrs. Evan McConnell.

Thompson Bussey entertained a congenial party of four friends.

Claude Barnwell was host to a party of six.

Another congenial party of the evening was that of W. E. McIntosh, who entertained several intimate friends.

Among others were Misses Venice Mayson, Mildred Sumnerlin, Sara Patton, Georgia Dickinson, Leibel Hunt, Dorothy Holditch, Margaret Gresham, Louise Scruggs, Lucile Kirt, Estelle Lindsey, Dorothy Bryson, Dorothy Orr, Laura McDonald, Mildred Winston, Irene Grambling, Ruth Wright, Chicago: Charlotte Hammer, Elizabeth Worley, Estelle Lindsey, Mildred Matson, Ruth Hutchinson, Marion Bailey, Genevieve Harper, Dodo White, Laura Pope, Dorothy Bates, Victoria Tier, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mather, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dean, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Dabney, and Dr. and Mrs. John S. Derr.

NOT EVEN A KITTEN IS SOFTER THAN THIS

The little girl next door to you has a kitten, of course. A fluffy, purry, furry wee thing. But it can be no softer than a new spring coating fabric, "Fluffy cloth" which is wool, but looks like silk, with an erect-standing pile. It comes in Palm Beach shades.

WHAT'S WHAT

By Helen Decie

The "game of the five senses" must follow the rules of fair play. Just as no one should irritate his neighbor's hearing faculty by unduly loud talk, so should none offend another's perception of odors by eating garlic or limburger cheese or even raw onions except in the privacy of a home, and then only when these malodorous foods are not objectionable to other members of the family.

It is very bad manners to impose our special tastes on others who do not share our peculiarities. Thus no one, upon whose breath lingers the unpleasant odors noted above, should go into a street car or train, a church or a theater, without first rinsing the mouth thoroughly with black coffee, which is said to be a deodorant in these cases. The man who carries a pound of limburger cheese into a crowded car ought to be arrested for assault and battery of the most sensitive of all the five senses.

Edmondson-Lambright.

Of cordial interest is the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Glynn Edmondson, of Lanette, Ala., and Dr. William E. Lambright, of Atlanta, which was solemnized at Griffin, Ga., Sunday. Dr. and Mrs. Lambright are now on their wedding trip which will take them to the east coast of Florida, where they will be joined by friends. Dr. and Mrs. Tatum, of Macon. On their return to Atlanta they will make their home on East Eighth street.

Juliette D. A. R. Elect Officers.

Juliette, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—The Governor Edward Telfair chapter, D. A. R., of Thomaston, has elected Mrs. W. L. Jenkins delegate to the state convention. Alternates are Miss Myrtle Allen, Mrs. O. W. Jones, Mrs. Louise M. Stephens, Miss Mary Kate Bethel. The following were elected delegates to the national congress at Washington, D. C.: Mrs. W. L. Jenkins, Mrs. B. G. McKenney, Mrs. Lelia B. Matthews, Miss Mary Kate Bethel.

Parent-Teachers Meet.

The Parent-Teacher association of Milton Avenue school will hold its regular meeting Wednesday, February 1, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present, and a cordial invitation is extended to visitors.

Give Luncheon.

Miss Barbara Bishop, of Los Angeles, Cal., who is visiting Mrs. J. E. C. Peider, will be the central figure at a luncheon at which Mrs. H. L. Cobbs will entertain Thursday, February 2, at the Piedmont Driving club.

Mather College To Open Wednesday.

Elizabeth Mather college will open for its second term Wednesday. The school is now in its new home, 65 East Fourteenth street, and its student body is made up of Atlanta girls.

The Constitution's Patterns

A FROCK OF STYLISH SIMPLICITY.

3852. The versions of the one-piece dress are innumerable as this model shows. It has the youthful effect of the Russian closing, and is equally smart with high or low neck finish. The sleeve offers a new feature. This is a splendid design for street wear as a coat dress, or for indoor wear. Serge would be good for this model or mohair. The width of the skirt at the foot is two yards.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 44-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A VERY SMART FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Pattern 3435 is illustrated in this design. It is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. An 8-year size will require 4 5/8 yards of 27-inch material.

This will be attractive in plaid or linen in a plain color, it is also good for serge (with braid trimming or braiding), and for velvet, silk, gabardine and poplin.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A UNIQUE STYLE.

Pattern 3577 is shown in this illustration. It is cut in seven sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require 6 3/4 yards of 40-inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is about two yards. The sleeve may be finished with or without the cuff portion and the drapery on the skirt may be omitted. The skirt is mounted on a body lining.

Serge, satin, taffeta, pongee, linen, gingham, sateen and challie could be used for this style.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and include price in silver or stamps. ### ANSWERED LETTERS

R. E. M.—To refine a skin which has become coarsened from blackheads, there should be a daily cleansing with creamy followed by dashes of very cold water or an ice rub. While the skin will show a general improvement at once, the enlarged pores will not contract until the impact of soil has been removed. This will take persistent effort and sometimes requires several months of it, before a very clear skin has become fine grained.

Cupid—At 22 years of age, height 5 ft. 4 in. and weight 122 pounds, your bust measure is correct at 35 inches. If you prefer it to be less reduce all over making your weight about 115 pounds.

Mrs. L. M. G.—The nursing period is not the time for a woman to try a reduction diet. If you are nourishing the child you will not grow stout and if you do, it shows that the milk is not as good as it should be. Even though you have this tendency to become stout, have a very nourishing diet including milk, but avoid the starchy foods and fat meats.

Eager—When the ankles and legs are too fat and out of proportion to the rest of the body, reduce them through exercises of a vigorous massage. A strong solution of Epsom Salts is sometimes used with the massage because of its astringent qualities.

Brown Eyes—As you did not state your age I am unable to tell just what should be your weight. Since you mention that both your face and throat are much too thin it is possible that you need building up. Olive oil and grape juice will do this if you care for it. It is usually taken three times each day with the meals and the quantity is a tablespoonful of each.

M. C. D.—If the hair on your lip is dark, keep it bleached and extract it; the conspicuous hair with blunt end tweezers, unless you can have them removed by means of the electric needle treatment.

Freddie—If you send me a letter with a stamped, addressed, envelope enclosed, I shall be glad to mail you

They bothered me so badly that I could do my work only with the help of my husband. One day he saw the 'ad.' in our paper telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing for women, so I began to take it. It has helped me wonderfully. I am feeling fine, do all my housework and washing for seven in the family. I have been irregular too, and now am all right. I am telling my friends what it has done for me and am sure it will do good for others. You can use this letter as a testimonial. I will stand up for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound any time."—Mrs. WM. JUBINKE, Foster, Oregon.

Doing the housework for a family of seven is some task. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out or irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

Rich in Food and Health Values

The value of grapefruit and oranges, in calories or fuel units of food, has been amply demonstrated by medical and scientific research. Now science has found these fruits equally rich in vitamins, the food elements essential to the perpetuation of life; vitamins making other food constituents available to the system.

It is the juice of grapefruit and oranges that contains the calories and the vitamins. Sealdsweet Florida fruits are heavy with juice, indicated by weight, hence their usefulness as food and for maintaining health.

THIS MARRYING

BY MARGARET CALKIN BANNING
(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

Next Week, "The Rustler of Wind River."
By George Washington Ogden.

Horatia sank down in a chair and gazed at her face with her hands. "My God," cried Grace, "why shouldn't I do as I please? Why should I say one thing and act another? If I know marriage is rotten why should I hold to its forms? Haven't we all had marriage was archaic—love should be free?"

There was no answer.

"Come, now, isn't that one of the great Sunday afternoon subjects for discussion?"

Horatia nodded. "But this is different."

"Why different?"

"Because it is furtive and hidden—don't you see it's ugly?"

"It's hidden because of just such words as you. You for whom I am not fit!"

"It's not a question of fitness. I don't condemn you, Grace. Perhaps you are right. Maybe I am cheap and cowardly. But I can't live with it."

Generations of Grants and Ferrises living in holy wedlock speaking through her—rash current phrases, one modern leniency dropping from her before the facts of furtive illicit love and adultery. The education of modern thought and modern living pushed to the ground by the healthy instinct of race, healthy still in spite of its seeking in strong, acidulous, dangerous ideas. Living with Grace was not a debatable issue. It was an impossibility.

"Heaven knows that I don't want to live with you," said Grace hotly. "I didn't want marriage. I had no illusions about that. Marriage was quite the ugliest thing I had seen. But I did want a lover. And I found I could love—I can love! I've had three lovers in five years, and I believe in marriage less than ever. The men have all wanted me to marry them. But I won't. People use marriage and then it uses them. It is meaningless. More and more people cheat it and pretend to hang on when they are sick of each other. When my lovers and I are through—we're through. I tell you that that man who was here last night hates the sight of his wife. She must know it. Yet she rides in his car and gives him money and eat at his table. Isn't that degradation?"

Horatia did not answer and Grace stopped talking, too, for a while.

"Don't you want to stay here? I'll go," offered Grace brusquely later.

"No—no!" Horatia protested. "I'm the one to go. I really ought to go to stay with Maud's children for a while anyhow. She and her husband want to go to New York for six weeks and they have been asking me to stay at their house while they are away. I didn't promise, but I will go."

"Tonight?"

Horatia hesitated.

"No," she answered bravely, "tomorrow."

Suddenly Grace burst into tears.

It was the first time that reality had closely touched Horatia and for the first time she realized that in dealing with personal realities, theories have little value unless they have been tested by experience.

To be sure that there could be no more discussion Horatia telephoned her sister in the morning and Maud's definite tones coming over the wire, expressing pleasure at the news and plunging at once into a world of details, reassured her. It was reassurance just to realize that Maud was setting up from her breakfast table and that her mind was anxiously turning on the problem of buying a new wardrobe trunk or making her old one do. There was something cheering in the impression that much of life was made up of just such innocent trivialities.

CHAPTER VI.

Maud departed for New York, radiant in new clothes and expectations of others. She set her house in order and gave Horatia a detailed list of instructions as to what to do on every usual occasion and in every emergency. And Horatia found a surprising pleasure in what she was to undertake. The Williams were to be gone two months and she would have full charge of everything. It would be interesting and stimulating to run a house and supervise the care of children. She liked Maud's children and she liked the housemaid and the cook. It would be very easy and to Maud's anxious worries she turned a laughing face and a competent spirit. She stood, with Jackie held by one hand and the baby in her arms, waving good-by to their parents, and when the car was out of sight took her charges to the nursery with a delightful new feeling of personal responsibility.

For three weeks things ran smoothly. Then the housemaid was sent to the hospital one day for an operation for acute appendicitis, and for a few hours confusion reigned. Horatia, to whom the cook telephoned, left her work to Bob Brotherton and came home in haste. She encouraged the terrified housemaid and got her safely to the ambulance and engaged a nurse for her at the hospital. Then the cook went whistly back to her own work and Horatia started to put the children to bed. She had often done it before, but always before Ellen had laid things out for her and the nursery had been in order and the children fed. She found tonight a nursery in the wildest confusion, two cross children and no supper ready for them. She consulted Anna, the cook. Anna was but temperately helpful. She told Horatia what they had for supper and how to prepare the baby's food but she did not suggest helping her. Horatia struggled with a mass of dishes, formulas and prohibitions and finally bore the tray up to the nursery. It was an hour and a half before she came down, but then the room was in order and the children in bed and quiet. Anna, who had kept dinner waiting for half an hour, did not seem especially co-operative. Now that the shock of Ellen's illness was over and a call from the hospital reported her as resting easily, Anna seemed inclined to worry lest she be imposed upon. She told Horatia that Ellen always dressed the children at half-past seven and that she could not both get breakfast and dress them. Also she wondered if she could care for them during the day when Horatia was at the office. Horatia soothed her fears. Maud had left no instructions as to what to do in case one of the servants had appendicitis but Horatia guessed that the best thing was to engage a temporary housemaid. In the morning she promised Anna that should be done.

She was up early to dress and feed the children—but in spite of her early rising she found that she had to eat her own breakfast very hurriedly and then was late at the office because she had to go to three employment agencies. They showed her long waiting lists of their patrons but promised to do what they could. Horatia had no choice but to be content and so she went to the office and plunging into an exciting day forgot Maud's household for a while.

But returning that night she was forced into the thick of domestic difficulty again. Anna was distinctly cross. The children were cross. There were many loose ends for Horatia to tie—many duties to perform which seemed especially wearying after her long day at the office.

Savagely she spurned a little thought which crawled into her mind at times. "Of course, I can manage my house and my work, when I am attacking my own problems. It's only because this is something I am not used to, something that I have to carry out according to the plans which other people have made for me." But none the less the thought crawled back again, suggesting that Maud had money and everything to make things easy for her and that even then the care of two children and a household was a heavy task when it was coupled with even eight hours of office work. She did not take that problem to Jim. It was hard to phrase and there seemed no very obvious way to solve it except by her own efforts. They wanted children and a home and she must work. She was doubly sure that she would want to work, especially when Anna's complaints and the children's restlessness were forgotten in the busy routine of the office—and yet there were times when just to get up the morning and go to the office seemed too hard a strain. Suppose that after her marriage she should feel it too hard?

They could not find a new housemaid. The employment agencies seemed futile and advertisements, even in The Journal, brought such dilapidated creatures in answer that Horatia could not bear to entrust the children to them. For a few days they tried a trained nurse with whom Anna quarreled bitterly and who finally left because Anna insisted that she should make beds and do the dusting. Anna was continually on the defensive. Ellen continued to get better. That was the bright spot. In a few weeks she would be as well as ever and in the meantime, if Anna would only stay, Horatia felt that she could manage. She refused to write Maud that she was having difficulties. Maud had counted on this trip and after all there was nothing very wrong.

But a worse complication came and after it had come, Horatia felt that all had been easy before. Jackie, with the astonishing suddenness of children, had been well when she started for her office in the morning and when she came home at night he was sick and feverish and refused to eat his supper. She put him to bed and consulting Maud's list found the name of the baby doctor and summoned him. He was a gentle-voiced, pleasant young man who after one look at the boy developed a frightening air of seriousness and told Horatia to send for a nurse. She asked him if she should telegraph Maud but he shook his head.

"It's not much use. He's poisoned somehow—eaten something or some things that he shouldn't have eaten. The chances are that he will come out all right by tomorrow, but if he doesn't he couldn't get here anyhow. You can wait until morning. He will probably be all right. But it will mean prompt work now. Try to get a nurse from the children's hospital."

A tangled night. Horatia remembered the coming of the nurse and her own quick confidence that the uniform would help somehow in bringing Jackie through. So much skill surely—She remembered Jim's coming and her amazement that his arms could not comfort her—that nothing could help her except the assurances that the poor, tossing, wailing little boy would probably be all right. She heard him cry as they did things to his little body which hurt before they relieved it. And once she turned to Jim with a frightened cry:

"I can't bear it, Jim! I tell you I can't bear it. And what if it were my child. Could it be worse? Dare we risk all this?"

A fight for life is always terrible, but with a child, when the odds are so unequal, it is especially terrible. The doctor and nurse, quiet and co-operative, worked steadily together—hours passed—the cries from the tortured little body became fever and at last the doctor, coming out into the upper hallway where Jim and Horatia sat together, said these words which have brought such floods of happiness to so many watchers. "He'll get through all right. In a week he'll be as fit as ever. Great bit of luck that we caught it in time. In half an hour more he would have had convulsions and it's hard to get a baby well under those conditions."

Horatia was weeping silently.

"You've had a big strain, Miss Grant. Better get to bed. The nurse will be here all night and tomorrow I'll send someone to relieve her. In a day or two he won't need any watching; but while he is so weak it is just as well give him expert nursing."

He was gone.

"You're to go to bed at once," said Jim. "If you don't you will lose your job on The Journal. Come, you can lock me out and then go to bed."

Horatia went around the house with Jim, locking the windows and doors and turning off the lights. Coupled with her relief was a happiness in doing these domestic things with

"YOU'RE NOT GOING TO WHIP THAT CHILD— I DON'T CARE WHAT HE DID— HANG THAT STRAP UP— I'LL LOOK AFTER HIM— JUST BECAUSE HE SAYS HE WON'T GO TO BED—"

"YOU'RE NOT GOING IN THERE— THAT'S ALL— HANG THAT STRAP UP AND SIT DOWN AND READ YOUR PAPER— I'LL TAKE CARE OF THAT BOY— IF YOU WHIPPED AN ELEPHANT WITH A STRAP LIKE THAT THE HUMANE SOCIETY WOULD PUT YOU IN JAIL FOR CRUELTY—"

"WHY DON'T YOU GO OUT AND GET A STICK AND PUT SOME NAILS IN IT TO WHIP HIM WITH? TORTURE HIM— PUT A WHIPPING POST UP IN THE HOUSE—"

"WHAT DO YOU WANT ME TO WHIP HIM WITH? A COUPLE OF OSTRICH FEATHERS? THAT'S THE KIND OF PARENTS TO HAVE— NICE AND GENTLE— ONE OF THOSE KIND PARENTS WHO GIVE THE KID CHLOROFORM BEFORE WHIPPING HIM—"

Jim and a new closeness because they had been through suffering together. At the front door, he took her in his arms.

"I couldn't have borne it without you, Jim."

"We can bear anything—together."

Then, as if everything— "I become as hard as possible to test her, and finding her brave under the test, was becoming kinder, the household burdens lightened. Jackie was well—so amazingly well that it was hard to believe that he ever had been sick—Ellen was better and came back to her work and the house slid into order and ease again. And more and more accustomed did Horatia become to the ways of a household and more and more normal did it seem to imagine herself in a household.

"Please, Jim," begged Rose Hubbell, "you will come with me today? It's a bad anniversary for me. Let's go for a long country walk and get all this sunshine. Will you?"

He remembered with a shock that it must be a bad anniversary for her. Just three years ago on just such a day, Jack Hubbell had shot the bottom out of his world. And here too— and Jim's own, for a while. The bitter reminiscence awakened a keen pity in him for her. Yes, he would go. He promised, and half an hour later was on his way to meet her at the station. They were to ride to the country and then start walking along the lake shore.

Dempsey to Defend Title Against Brennan March 17

New York, January 30.—Jack Dempsey will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Bill Brennan, of Chicago, in a 12-round match in Madison Square Garden, March 17. It was announced tonight by the promoters that the fight would be a main event for the night.

Kid Norfolk Knocks Out Flowers In Third Round With Hard Right

Tim O'Dowd Wins Ten-Round Decision Over Rabbit Palmer in Slashing Affair.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Tiger Flowers, whatever hopes he ever had of annexing the light-heavyweight championship of the colored race were demolished last night, after 30 seconds of fighting in the third round, when Kid Norfolk, the present possessor of that title, put all his weight behind a right that landed something less than a mile, and which landed flush on "Tiger's" jaw.

Johnny Glynn, the diminutive referee who had been having a hard time handling the colored battlers, began counting in a deliberate fashion, and reached the fatal ten with approximately two minutes to spare. Johnny might have taught a class in calculus during the time the Atlanta negro was on the floor. That tells the story of just how hard this Norfolk person landed with that terrible right of his.

Surprised Flowers.
We have an idea that "Tiger" was the most surprised man in the house when Norfolk shot that right. He had probably been fooled into thinking that if he could keep at a respectable distance he might stay the limit. It was apparently the idea of keeping out of the imagined "danger zone" as much as possible that Flowers even fought Norfolk.

That particular Norfolk had been out-lined by the "Tiger's" manager as being close in, where Norfolk would have little trouble in putting over many of his short jolts.

So the "Tiger" was doubly surprised when a black arm shot out from nowhere and clipped him squarely on the jaw. He had no time to express much in his face, but a detected considerable surprise stamped on Flowers' facial features as he went to the floor.

Reaching that place, Flowers was not content to lie. He rolled over until he was almost standing on his head, then his legs came down. He was flat on his back when Referee Glynn completed the count.

Was Great Fight.
It was the sudden end to a fight that kept the crowd raving from the time it started. The customers streamed down to see a real battle. Permit us to proclaim from the house-top that they were given their money's worth.

The struggle was a scorching one as it lasted. Flowers was not supposed to strike the limit. He probably thought he'd be able to do it, but the very fans that were yelling themselves hoarse for the local negro felt deep down in their hearts that he was time during the fight Flowers would walk into one of the heavy clouds being sent out by Norfolk. They knew, too, that would prove the end of the mill.

This tall Atlanta darky made himself felt the time he was in the ring. He was not in at the first round and earned it by sheer fighting ability. Norfolk was cautious at the bell. He noticed the Atlanta's queer style as he came out of his corner. He knew he had not seen anything that looked just like it. So he let the "Tiger" do the fighting.

Flowers Did It.
Flowers then did it. Eluding a when Jack was on his way to the title he disposed of Brennan in six rounds. In 1920 in a championship match in Madison Square Garden Brennan was knocked out in the twelfth round.

Plans for a proposed match between Dempsey and Harry Wills, the New Orleans negro heavyweight, have not been abandoned because of the Brennan arrangements, it was said.

left that Norfolk poked in his direction. Flowers worried in and socked a left to Norfolk's chin. It would have hurt an ordinary fighter, but he only shook his head and came in for some more.

He was giving the Atlanta negro a test all that time. He wanted to know if this tall battler he was pitted against had anything in the hitting line that might prove dangerous. Evidently toward the close of the round, Norfolk realized that he was in as much danger of getting knocked out as the Canier building is of toppling over today at noon. Then he began to show just how good he was.

Flowers was fortunate to stick through the terrible ordeal tempered in the second round. Norfolk was thoroughly angered. He figured that if he wasn't permitted to pound Flowers as much in the in-fighting as he should have been allowed to and he was bent entirely on bringing the bout to an end.

But Flowers stuck to his guns and succeeded in ripping one or two lefts to the winning fighter's mouth. The result was that Norfolk carried a split lip when he went back to his corner for the rest period, but he was far from being hurt.

Flowers was not weak as he came up for the third round. He looked as strong as he did when he came up to meet Norfolk. The split lip, the fight, but Norfolk was a little tidier as he left his corner.

Knockout Comes.
They sparred for about ten seconds, both seeking something to hit. Flowers saw an opening and shot his left, but it missed and he was caught in the side. He broke loose and was getting set for another trial when Norfolk's muscular left arm started a clout and landed. Flowers went down and stayed there.

The preliminaries were slashing affairs. The fight between little Tim O'Dowd and Rabbit Palmer was one of the big features of the evening. At the end of ten rounds, O'Dowd was awarded the decision and the house trembled with the applause that followed the announcement.

Glynn had to cut no hairs in making up his mind about the winner of this fracas. O'Dowd landed three punches to his opponent's one and had more of the points. Cook, at guard, also played a good game.

Remarkable Improvement.
Tim showed remarkable improvement. He showed plainly that he has passed the preliminary stage and is entering the main event. He showed his weight in the making. He had little trouble in knocking Palmer throw away all the wallops that carried any steam, while all the rest went to Timmy. In the fifth Palmer was in a bad way, but stayed up.

Young Silver showed nothing alarming in winning over Kid Carr in six rounds. Carr had nothing but courage and ruggedness. He invited Silver to send over his most effective knockouts and smiled the while he took them.

Billy Lotz' battler, Young Dugan, and Charlie Thompson's sensation, Kid Allen, furnished considerable amusement in their encounter. Referee Glynn stopped the encounter in the second, awarding the fight to Dugan.

AMATEURS IN FINE BATTLES

West End Presbyterian, Central Presbyterian, Capitol Avenue Baptist and Druid Hills Presbyterian were winners in the Intermediate League of the Sunday School Athletic association in games played at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night.

The first game of the evening was between Grimes Methodist and West End Presbyterian, won by the latter, a score of 21 to 18. This game was close better than the first, with a score of 12 to 7 in favor of the winners. Both teams tried many long shots that went wild. The passing of the winning team during the last few minutes of play gave the way for the victory. They were ahead in the first half, but the Grace team played much better ball in the second half. Becknell and Smith played the best game for the winners, while C. Nunnally played best for the losers.

Second Game.
The second game of the night, won by Central Presbyterian over Wesley Memorial, was the best game so far in the Intermediate League. The score was 18 to 13, and it indicates the closeness of the two teams. The score at the end of the first half was 9 to 6, with the winners on the long end. The superb guarding of both teams in the first kept the score extremely low.

In the second half both teams played a far better game than in the first. The passing was more open and both teams held the ball but very little. The passing was very quick and accurate. Both teams kept on getting into the field with the many long shots. Branley and Bray, did most of the scoring for the winners and both played a very creditable game in the field and covering the floor. The work of Killian and Lockridge was by far the best for the losers. The dribbling of those two players was the best of the night.

Third Game.
The third game of the night, won by Capitol Avenue Baptist over the Second Baptist team, with a score of 34 to 6, was the loosest game of the four. The winners scored at will and the guards of the winning team held the losers to only two field goals during the entire game. One of these was made in the first half and one in the last half. The winners exhibited the best teamwork and passing of the night. Very few long shots were tried by either side. The winners took advantage of every opportunity.

Fourth Game.
The last game of the night, won by Druid Hills Presbyterian over Grimes Methodist, was a close game. The final score was 33 to 12. The score at the end of the first half was 12 to 8 in favor of the winners. The winning team played much better in the last half, while the losers played miserable basketball. They seemed unable to locate their mates in passing, and had but few chances shot.

The Druid Hills team played a wonderful game at passing. Every boy passed quickly and accurately. Minnick and Lockridge played the best game for the winners, scoring the majority of the points. Cook, at guard, also played a good game.

BY BLINKY HORN.
Nashville, Tenn., January 30.—(Special.)—There's the diamond date card for the Commodores.

It is a schedule less lengthy than that which Vandy last year waded through to the S. I. A. A. title. It is representative enough to give the Commodores a just claim for the crown in Dixie if they can meet again with their 1922 success. And there is every indication that they should. For Mima Tyner, sterling receiver, is the only member of the 1922 champs who will be missing when Wallace Wade in about two weeks calls his charges together in the gym.

All the other stars in that galaxy which brought diamond fame to the Commodore camp will be in Dixie in the spring. In addition, a number of likely looking freshmen will be on hand. So what with an abundance of hitting a strong box staff and football behind the platter, Vandy looks up as a formidable factor on the Dixie diamond.

Two Conference Rivals.
Ohio State and Michigan are Vandy card, together with seven S. I. A. A. rivals. The home card is highly attractive, for both the Wolverines and Buckeyes will perform in the field. In addition, Cumberland, Mississippi State, Camp Bonning and Tennessee are in the battle the Commodores have with Sewanee closing the home campaign in a three-game series.

Fine Star Talent.
On the slush this campaign Vandy appears unusually strong. They have four veterans—Paul Stum, Silas Embury, Boots Richardson and Ted McCullough as casualties, with Clarence Becknell, rated as the best prep school pitcher in Nashville last year, also available. Stum, who was ineligible last season, should prove of great strength to Vandy, for the boy is a fine journeyman pitcher, eagerly sought by a number of clubs in professional ball, among them being the Browns. But he has passed up all offers until he could lead his Vandy campaign. Embury was unsurpassed in Dixie last year, not even by the great Pantone of Georgia.

For backstoppers, Vandy has Hightower and Hawkins back, with Bonar and Lawrence available from the freshmen talent.

The infield will be practically a veteran organization, with Jule Thomas on first, Doc Kuhn at short, and Woodruff at the hot corner. Freddy Meiers, native son, is a smart infielder, while Gil Reese is rated as one of the most promising shortstops who has ever come to Vanderbilt.

In the outfield Vandy will have Manning Brown, Bury Luton, "Doc" Smith, Jess Neely and Ted McCullough. There's a fine array of hitters topped by the "Babe" Ruthy of the S. I. A. A. Ted McCullough, Red Williams, the Vandy fullback, is also a firecracker. Taylor, from Arkansas, is another promising freshman. Hunkaba, who once performed with Lawrenceburg, will also be out.

MISSISSIPPI JAKE is a guy who named himself after the biggest river in the world. If Jake had lived in Roughtown they would have named him after a small leak in a fountain pen.

Alabama After Three Scalps Wants Clean-Up on Invasion

Alabama's five is coming over to Georgia with crimson in its eyes as well as on its jersey. The Alabama team has scored a championship from afar and have found the scent satisfactory.

I spent Sunday in Tusculum, where the Alabamians are located and found that basketball had suddenly become a major sport over there, where formerly it was hardly considered as being worthy of consideration.

Charlie Bernier's charges are not boastful, but they are inclined to have a close memory of regard for their own basketball capabilities, which is entirely justified by their record.

Discussing the Georgia invasion, they freely admit that they believe they will defeat Tech and Georgia in as many days and have high hopes that they can take the Atlanta Athletic club into camp. In addition to this, they believe that they are going to be hard to beat in the S. I. A. A. tournament, though they haven't yet bought the whereabouts of the team that Al Doonan and his associates will give the winner of that affair.

However, Bernier has promised them a good showing against the A. A. C. He will take the team to the national tourney, which is proving an effective stimulant in producing spirited basketball.

ALABAMA HAS BIG ADVANTAGES.
Alabama's undertaking is no easy one. They play Tech Saturday, march on to Georgia Sunday, and come back to Atlanta for the A. A. C. Tuesday. Taking on three teams of such caliber practically in succession is a mighty task for any organization.

If you watched the basketball tournament last year, you realized that the Georgia team was off from the top of their games as the tournament progressed. In the finals, either the Kentuckians or the Georgia team would be the victors. Practically any good, middling team, and by the time that Alabama strikes the A. A. C. the Crimson warriors should be fairly tired. How-

Confessions by Eight Notre Dame Players Wreck Football Chances

Rockne, the Coach, Is Broken-Hearted Over Proof of Professionalism on Outfit.

South Bend, Ind., January 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Eight Notre Dame athletes today voluntarily confessed to a rather William Carey, chairman of the athletic board, and knaute of the school, that they had played in the semi-professional football game at Taylorville, Ill., November 27, 1921, with the Carolinaville, Ill., team.

The eight men were: Eddie Anderson, Mason City, Iowa, all-American end. Chester Wynne, Orlinque, Kan., all-American fullback, selector of several football writers and star hurdler.

Roger Kiley, Chicago, varsity end, captain of the basketball team and star track man.

Lawrence Shaw, Stewart, Iowa, varsity tackle and western champion shot putter.

Harry Mara, Huntington, Ind., substitute center in football and regular baseball player.

Robert Phelan, Fort Madison, Iowa, substitute varsity fullback.

Earl Walsh, Adrian, Ala., substitute varsity back.

Dick Seifert, Carlinville, Ill., substitute guard.

The players exonerated Gus Deach, member of the American Olympic team, and John Mohardt, all-American back, from taking part in the game, saying that neither in any way implicated in the affair.

The athletes declared they had received no money for taking part in the game, but that they had been paid $100,000 was bet by citizens of the two towns, and which recently resulted in disqualification of nine University of Illinois stars for playing on the Taylorville eleven. They declared they had agreed to play merely as a lark, and went to Taylorville with the idea of just having a little fun during the "Thanksgiving" holidays.

In agreeing to play with the Carolinaville, Ill., eleven against Taylorville eleven, the Notre Dame men were unaware that the game was illegal. The Illinois stars recently disqualified for their part in the matter were to play with Taylorville, they said. Satisfied that the game was legal, they agreed to play with Taylorville.

Notre Dame students to be implicated in the scandal, the school authorities tonight had launched an intensive investigation to find out who was the "fix" of the affair and what means were used to tempt the lads into professionalism.

Other Misfortune.
This man, if a student, will be sealed from school. The disqualification of the eight men, together with graduates and disqualification of three other men recently for playing in a professional game at Green Bay, Wis., was looked upon as wrecking Notre Dame's chances in football, basketball and track during the coming season.

Coach Knute Rockne, who will not have a single regular around him to build his 1922 eleven, while little hope was held forth for successful replacing the ineligible and basketball men. Wynne and Shaw were first men in the hurdles and weights.

Confession by the men produced a sensation on the campus and left Mr. Rockne in what another university official declared as a "heart-broken" condition.

The eight early today went before Father William Carey, chairman of the athletic board, and told him the story of the affair. Several of them said that they were to tell him. For backstoppers, Vandy has Hightower and Hawkins back, with Bonar and Lawrence available from the freshmen talent.

The infield will be practically a veteran organization, with Jule Thomas on first, Doc Kuhn at short, and Woodruff at the hot corner. Freddy Meiers, native son, is a smart infielder, while Gil Reese is rated as one of the most promising shortstops who has ever come to Vanderbilt.

In the outfield Vandy will have Manning Brown, Bury Luton, "Doc" Smith, Jess Neely and Ted McCullough. There's a fine array of hitters topped by the "Babe" Ruthy of the S. I. A. A. Ted McCullough, Red Williams, the Vandy fullback, is also a firecracker. Taylor, from Arkansas, is another promising freshman. Hunkaba, who once performed with Lawrenceburg, will also be out.

GEORGIA WINS FROM AUBURN

Athens, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—In a very close and lively game, Georgia defeated Auburn here tonight by a score of 39 to 15. Neither team showed very much basketball at any time. The passing of both teams was far from perfect. Georgia was unusually slow on shifting from defense to offense. The Auburn team was much faster than Georgia, but on account of inability to locate the basket, they could not take advantage of their many shots.

Rawson for Georgia was the most accurate in locating the basket, he getting 18 of his 25 shots. Points were scored by the Auburn team by James Bennett after a bad start began to locate the basket and rang up 12 points. Hahn was the best man for Auburn, he scoring 9 of the 19 points.

The line-up:
GEORGIA (30). POS. AUBURN (15).
Georgia (18).... r. f. .... Hahn (9).
Georgia (8).... l. f. .... Dudley (4).
Georgia (15).... c. .... Harrison Clark.... r. f. .... McKinney Boney (4).... l. g. .... Duke Substitutions—Georgia: Bennett (4) for Murray, Wier for Clark, Boney for Hahn, Richardson for Wier, Auburn: Dowell (2) for Dudley, Referee, Holt (Commercial High).

MOLESWORTH STARTS SOON

Birmingham, Ala., January 30.—(Special.)—Like a harbinger of spring, Carlton Molesworth, who for so many years has sat on the throne of power in Birmingham, will begin his journey southward this week, and before another seven days have passed will have once more taken up his residence in Birmingham ready for baseball and its problems.

Winters may come and winters may go, it may rain and it may snow, but the minute Carlton Molesworth sets foot on Alabama soil every fan in the Magic City region knows that he is as Whitey Glazier has proven a winner in the National league, spring is well on its way.

Dog Here Wednesday.
Manager Molesworth, who has been passing the winter in his home in Frederick, Md., will leave for Dixie on the night of January 31, and is due to arrive here on the afternoon of February 1, on Wednesday afternoon, to be exact.

With the arrival of Moley actual work on the 1922 pennant contending Barons will begin. The whole Barons managerial force will be in close on the task of strengthening the holes that appear in the probable lineup for this season. Contracts will be mailed and approved, and perhaps several more big deals will be completed.

Nothing new has developed since the announcement of the purchase of Harry Harper, hard-hitting outfielder, except the alleged statements of that player that he will never play in Birmingham. This time next week there may be something new to tell, though, as Manager Molesworth always carries up a card or two after arriving in Birmingham.

Spring Training March 10.
Manager Moley will have almost six weeks to wind up preliminary business before starting spring training. The Barons management is scheduled to begin training about March 10, and will have a good month of training at Rickwood before opening the season here on April 15.

The roster list of the Barons has been announced, showing many promising players already secured by the Barons.

Of the pitchers the following will be on hand to try to register berths: Eberhardt, Whitehill, Fronick, Meeker, Nichols, Bates and Statham. Eberhardt and Whitehill are veterans of 1921, while all the others but Statham were farmed out by the Barons last year. Statham was secured from Nashville in a trade with Gallagher.

Bottom Behind the Bat.
Tony Broten is being lined up for first string catching honors, with Brandon and Warwick leading the opposition.

Nice, a 200 hitter in the Blue Ridge league, will be here to try to register a berth. Eberhardt, Whitehill, Fronick, Meeker, Nichols, Bates and Statham. Eberhardt and Whitehill are veterans of 1921, while all the others but Statham were farmed out by the Barons last year. Statham was secured from Nashville in a trade with Gallagher.

Burkett is being touted as a find at shortstop, while Eddie Kane and Tommy Taylor are lined up as second basemen. Kane is the youngest who showed such form last spring, and was sent to the Mississippi State league.

Silva, Emery, Allen and Harper make an outfield problem seem not a problem. All are fair hitters and good fielders, and a strong combination should be secured from this quartet.

Taken all in all, the outlook is not so dull, but there's lots of work and figuring to be done yet.

FULTON AND DECATUR TO BATTLE TODAY

Decatur High will play the Fulton High school quintets this afternoon in the only attraction listed on the Co-Ed league schedule for today. The games will be played on the Fulton campus, and will begin promptly at 3 o'clock. The girls' game, will be played first, being followed by the boys' contest.

The Decatur quintets won from the Fulton five last time they met, and are thereby favored to win this afternoon. Especially in this true of the girls' game. The Fulton girls should put up a good scrap with the Decaturers.

EAST POINT GIRLS PLAY MARIETTA Y. W.

The East Point High school girls' quintet will play the Marietta Y. W. C. A. tonight on the latter's court at 8 o'clock. The East Point girls have a good team this year, and will give the Cobb county ladies a hard game. The guarding of Miss Buchanan, captain of the East Point team, has been one of the main reasons why East Point has been so successful this year. She is one of the best guards that has ever played with an East Point team.

Downward Movement In Stock Market

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, January 30.—Opening prices on the stock exchange today were a fraction lower on the average, and the downward movement continued most of the day, new lows recorded being made by American Sumatra, General Motors, U. S. Food Products and a number of other specialties. Consolidated Gas, on the news that the would be no supreme court decision in the 80-cent gas case, suddenly broke 5 points. The dividend on Consolidated Gas was held up at the end of last week in anticipation of a decision today which would permit an increase in gas rates. The executive committee of the board of directors which had been given power to act in declaring a dividend in this particular instance meets tomorrow. The regular rate may be declared; for obvious reasons the dividend may be reduced or held up. There is no doubt, however, but that the company, by using accumulated and current earnings of subsidiary corporations, can pay the regular dividend today if the directors so decided.

After a wide range of stock prices, the most striking new development was the further advance in sterling, the closing point, two years, and even today's high rate was only touched two years ago for a very short period. Around 1 o'clock sterling sold a fraction above $4.25. The closing last week was $2.34 3-4. A double bottom was made for many a long year is in today's offering of $30,000,000 50-year 6 per cent bonds to yield only 5.17 per cent about a half per cent below the outstanding United States government bonds. ### Chaloner Awarded One Cent Damages Against Newspaper

Washington, January 30.—John Armstrong Chaloner, of Merry Mills, Va., won a verdict for one cent to-day from the supreme court of the District of Columbia in his civil damage suit against The Washington Post. The case came up for retrial here, a verdict for $10,000 rendered in 1916 in favor of Chaloner having been reversed by the supreme court.

TO PICTURE FANS WHO ARE NOT FIGHT FANS

AND PARTICULARLY TO THE LADIES OF ATLANTA:

The Dempsey-Carpentier picture is a lot just pictures taken of a brutal prize fight. While these pictures show the boxing contest between the American and French Champions, it has been classified by everyone who has seen it, as one of the Greatest Educational Features ever seen on the screen. It has passed every Censor Board with flying colors, and is on the top of the fact that there is a Federal Law prohibiting the transportation of "Fight Films" from one state into another, and that they are being shown in Georgia, as well as many other states, must convince you that the pictures are of STERLING WORTH, otherwise Uncle Sam would say, "Thumbs Down." Men and women of all classes—from Judge to Layman, Merchant to Peddler, Artist to Mechanic—Society Matron to Shop Girl—including the American Federation of Labor, have indorsed this picture. Think of it—THE ONE PICTURE OF ALL PICTURES THAT PLEASES ALL CLASSES and everybody INDIVIDUALLY!

The reason for this genuine, whole-hearted nationwide indorsement is because it is a clean, wholesome, virile, manly, uplifting, boy and girl building picture. It begins with scenes from the life of Carpentier in this country until the very last second when the CHAMPIONSHIP remains in America. It shows the training camps of both contestants, the different methods of training—the dieting—in fact, it would take a solid page of this paper to tell you all about the REASON WHY YOU SHOULD SEE THIS PICTURE.

And this is the opinion of society, too. The Roosevelts, the Vincents, the Craigs, the Biddies, the Drapers of Boston and the Armours of Chicago.

And the world's greatest writers, Arthur Brisbane, Irvin Cobb, Roy Cohen, Heywood Brown, W. B. Maxweller, Alfred McCann, Darin Rayson and one hundred others, all agree, "IT'S A MUST."

TO SEE THIS PICTURE—DON'T FAIL TO BRING YOUR DAUGHTERS AND YOUR SONS—if you STILL doubt that you would not care to have them see it, COME YOURSELF, and if YOU DON'T BRING THEM DOWN YOURSELF, and possibly your dear old mother, too, WE WILL PUT YOU DOWN AS A "DIFFERENT KIND OF HUMAN BEING"—AND RETURN YOU THE PRICE OF ADMISSION.

The show that opened at the Lyric theatre Monday is one of the best of the season. It is a comedy playlet of farce entitled "Nearby a Hero," has a plot that is in every line and was enjoyed by capacity audiences Monday. Mr. Roberts as the bold, brave hero, supported his part well and is supported by an excellent cast.

Edwin George in "A Comedy of Errors," has a bright line of character that kept his audience in a laughing mood throughout George's attempt at juggling, which he accomplished, make him a comedian of the unusual kind.

Annette, a dainty little miss, singing classical and popular song selections, has a clear, sweet soprano voice and her ensembles are well rendered and thoroughly pleasing.

Bergman, McKenna, and Nicolson, two clever girls and a young man, in songs, classical and acrobatic features, and the "Punch and Judy" show, a whistling and mimicry makes this one of the best shows of the season.

Loew Vaudeville.
(At the Grand.)

Rarely is an act offered in vaudeville that possesses the versatility of the "Man of Many Faces," who heads the program at Loew's Grand theatre this week. Opening with the introduction of many characters presented in rapid-fire order, the act is a masterpiece of mimicry, enacts a short sketch in which these characters appear in bewildering manner. Then follows a series of tricks in magic and finally an illusion that is understandable. Beautifully dressed, the comedienne, amazed everybody with her wonderful performance. Adding, subtlety and multiplying figures, telling time, choosing colors, before a committee on the stage were demonstrated, and the act was unusual intelligence, for which she received as much applause as any act on the bill.

Frank and Ford and company have a winner in their laughable mimicry, and the "Punch and Judy" show, which is a masterpiece of mimicry, enacts a short sketch in which these characters appear in bewildering manner. Then follows a series of tricks in magic and finally an illusion that is understandable. Beautifully dressed, the comedienne, amazed everybody with her wonderful performance. Adding, subtlety and multiplying figures, telling time, choosing colors, before a committee on the stage were demonstrated, and the act was unusual intelligence, for which she received as much applause as any act on the bill.

McCormack and Cliff Wilson will get their share of laughs with some clever chatter and a few songs. One of the members of the team is an eccentric comedian.
